GOP Solon Says Lausche 'Tough'

(By The Associated Press)
Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said last night Ohio's Gov. Frank J. Lausche
"at this time would be a more difficult" Democratic presidential candidate for the GOP to beat
"than others who are running."

He said he did not know who
would be the hardest to beat in November. Adlai Stevenson is waging a formidable campaign,
Bridges said. "He (Stevenson)
has a brilliant mind," but "may
talk himself out in eight or nine
months," Bridges added.

Meanwhile, other top Republicans have begun talking about the kind of reelection campaign President Eisenhower should wage.
And the discussion so far indicates
he'll be urged to make personal
appearances in some key areas.

The question was discussed yesterday by three Republicans—National Chairman Leonard Hall and Senators Knowland of California
and Goldwater of Arizona.

All three indicated they foresaw
Eisenhower forays into at least a
few major cities.

AND KNOWLAND said he personally would ask the President to go into some areas where Republican candidates face strong opposition.

Among the Democrats, Sen. Estes Kefauver had more to say
about his position on Eisenhower's
health as a campaign issue, a position that conflicts with the one
taken by Stevenson.

Kefauver said he doesn't plan to make an issue of the President's
health. The Tennessee Democrat
added that he has "never questioned anyone's physical condition
or his looks."

Stevenson has said he views Eisenhower's health as a "compelling issue."

Kefauver said he doesn't think Stevenson is wrong in taking this position—"It's just that I'm running my own campaign."

Another Democrat, Sen. Fulbright of Arkansas, said today he fears discussion of Eisenhower's
health will overshadow what he called "the really important issue"—foreign policy. He added:
"While we talk about the Presi-

model taken from Mrs. Stamp.

Summit County detectives said
two of the older boys held up a
filling station manager here early Sunday and stole $740.

dent's health and whether there is
lasting prosperity, we may be losing Asia to the Russians."

Knowland, the Senate GOP leader, said he personally would urge Eisenhower to "get out beyond
merely television broadcasts from
the White House." He said Eisenhower should make a few campaign appearances in areas where Republican candidates might be in trouble.

EISENHOWER has rejected any
suggestion of a "barnstorming"
campaign and Knowland said he wasn't recommending that type of
vote seeking.

Goldwater, however, predicted
Eisenhower would do some "barnstorming" because "he's a campaigner at heart."

Hall said he believes any presidential campaign trips would "be at a minimum"—limited perhaps to a few flying visits to major cities.
He said he foresaw no cross-
country train trip.

Since Eisenhower said "yes" to
a second term bid, a big question
among Republicans has been who
his running mate will be. Eisenhower has been noncommittal.

An Associated Press poll of GOP governors, state chairmen
and national committee members
showed that 35 per cent of those
responding favor renomination of Nixon. An additional 9 per cent
were for Nixon if Eisenhower
wants him and less than 3 per cent
favored another candidate. Fifty-
four per cent did not comment or
were noncommittal.

Cigarette Vending Boys In Tizzy Now

COLUMBUS (AP)—Cigarette
smoking Ohioans were paying a penny a pack extra today to help
pay for new state buildings.

A spot survey showed things
fairly normal in the trade except for the cigarette vending machine
business.

That business was in a tizzy over
the problem of how to collect the
extra tax.

The problem was this: Cigarette
vending machines have been selling all packs at 25 cents, regulars,
king-size and filters.

Proprietors of the vending machine business admit this price is
a little high on regular-length cigarettes, but they say the extra
cost of the king-size and filter
brands more than offset this.

They say the 25-cent price will continue on regular cigarettes, but
they add they're forced to charge
more for kings and filters.

That means the machines must
be converted. A buyer will drop a quarter in the slot for regulars,
but he'll have to deposit 30 cents
for other cigarettes.

At least two central Ohio vending machine houses said today
they will pass on to the consumer
not only the extra tax, but the cost
of converting the machines to set a special price on some brands.

The change from the 30 cents—probably three pennies—will be slipped inside the pack.

Paulding Judge Dies In Florida Of Heart Attack

PAULDING (AP)—Common Pleas
Judge Edward W. Kuns of Paul-
ding County, former grand master
of Ohio Masons, died yesterday in Bradenton, Fla. He was 50.

Kuns, in Florida on vacation,
died after a heart attack. His body
will be returned to nearby Payne
where he lived.

Kuns has served one term as
common pleas judge and was running for reelection this year. He was a former Paulding County
prosecutor and had been grand master of Ohio Masons until last October.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete. Kuns is survived by his wife, three daughters and a son,
and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kuns of Payne.

60 Persons Safe As Freighter Sinks

SEATTLE (AP)—Its forward section wrenched off by high winds
and mountainous seas, the freighter Washington Mail sank in the North Pacific minutes after the 60
crewmen and passengers had taken to lifeboats.

Within a short time, the transport Gen. H. B. Freeman, brought
to the scene by the freighter's
first SOS, dropped rope ladders to the bobbing lifeboats and the 60
survivors scrambled up to safety.
"All survivors aboard, uninjured
and in good health," the Freeman radioed.

School Transfer Remonstrance Is Now Under Way

It's Their Privilege
Is Only Comment
By M-T Board Heads

Remonstrance petitions seeking
to block the transfer of a belt of
territory around Washington C. H.
from the Miami Trace School District to the Washington C. H. School District today were being circulated among the voters who
live in that area.

The petitions actually
have been out since "the first of
the month" but their actual existence was not certain until confirmed by three of those carrying them until Monday morning.

Osman King, the clerk of the Union Township Zoning Board of Appeals, said he was the leader of the movement. He said "six or seven persons are circulating the petitions. His reason for opposing the transfer, he said, was that
he wanted his daughter to continue
to go to Wilson School.

Joe Batson, an employee of the Bargain Store, said he had one of
the petitions but did not name any others who have them. Other than
to say that "we are taking it easy
and telling them (the voters) to
think it over," he said he had no
comment. He said he thought King
was the prime mover in the remonstrance. The Batsons live on the Jamestown pike just outside the city limits.

ROBERT HYER, an employee at
the Armo plant here, said he was carrying the remonstrance petition
"because we just don't want in the city school district." The Hyers
live on Hickory Lane, which turns
east off of North North Street
about a quarter of a mile beyond
the city limits.

Hyer said he understood that
King was the leader of the re-
monstrance movement but added
that he had picked up the petitions in the office of the superintendent of the county schools,
W. J. Hilty.

Supt. Hilty denied the petitions
had been prepared by him, but
did say they had been mimeo-
graphed in his office about a week
ago.

He said some of those interested
to Supt. W. W. Boyer of the Miami
Trace School District and had
then come to him to get the petitions.

Supt. Hilty explained: "They
(the remonstrators) are still our
people, we are obligated to serve
them insofar as we can answer any questions they have as to procedure."

He added "we (the county school
board) have tried to avoid taking
any position" on the remonstrance.

THE COUNTY School Board
approved the transfer of the belt
of territory, which varied in width
from a few rods to nearly two
miles, late the night of Jan. 31,
the last day for transferring territory by board action.

The transfer followed nearly a month of cooperative negotiations
by the Miami Trace and Washington C. H. school boards.

Robert Terhune, president of the Washington C. H. board was not
due back in the city until late Monday afternoon and was not available for comment.

But, Taylor Groff, the president of the Miami Trace Board,
and J. Herbert Perrill, the vice president, both said in substance
that the remonstrance is in accordance with the law and that
the remonstrance is the privilege
of the people.

Groff said that he had not heard
of the remonstrance movement
and Perrill said that although he
had heard some talk about it, he
did not know the petitions were
actually in circulation.

The transfer of territory approved
by the county School Board, for
which Supt. Hilty is the clerk, followed failure of a $175,000 bond
issue proposal last November to build a county high school and improve some of the other schools.

A year ago, all the school dis-

BULLETIN

George F. Baldrige, on trial
here for the fatal shooting of
game protector Irvin Patrick,
took the stand in his own defense
within a half hour after the trial
reopened Monday afternoon.

Baldrige followed Everett
Holcomb, a Portsmouth gunsmith
who was called as surprise witness for the defense.

Everett Holcomb, a Portsmouth
gunsmith, was the first witness to
take the stand Monday afternoon

21 years and was chief gunners
mate in the Navy.

He identified the gun used in the
fatal shooting as a Remington
Model 11, more than 25 years old.
Under questioning by Emory F.
Smith, attorney for the defense, he
said that the safety mechanism on
the gun has not been used in guns
manufactured in the United States
for 25 years.

When court reconvened at 1 P.
M., a crowd estimated at 75 was
waiting outside the door for seats
in the spectators' gallery.

In addition to the 64 fixed chairs
in the gallery, 18 folding chairs had
been added to the section to accommodate the big crowd.

as the trial of George F. Baldrige entered its second week.

Holcomb, a surprise witness for the defense, started his testimony by demonstrating to the jury the operation of the shotgun which fatally wounded Game Protector Irvin Patrick.

The state accuses Baldrige of second degree murder in Patrick's death; the defense claims the gun was discharged accidentally as Patrick grabbed it.

Baldrige himself had been expected to take the stand as the trial opened at 1:10 P. M. Monday.
The possibility remained that he might appear on the stand Monday afternoon as the session got underway with Holcomb's demonstration.

The gunsmith explained the breach and firing mechanism of the gun and to the way in which it ejected spent shells.

HOLCOMB said he had been a "professional shooter" for over 25 years, now employed by a dealer in guns. His duties, he said, are now "principally" with guns. He has been a gunsmith for the past years is the county, with the exception of Jefferson, Bloomingburg

and Paint were consolidated.

AFTER THE failure of the bond
issue, the county board transferred
the three "outside" districts into
the Miami Trace District.

Shortly after that, negotiations
for the transfer of the belt of territory were started in an atmosphere of complete harmony.

Meanwhile, petitions were circulated to transfer a large area
of contiguous territory from the Miami Trace District to the Washington C. H. district.

These petitions were held insufficient and invalid by the county
board at its last official meeting
after it had received a report on
a check of the signatures and a counter-petition.

However, Mrs. C. E. Rhoad, one
of the prime movers in this petitioning, has insisted that a physician on petitioners will carry their fight on — through legal action into the courts if necessary.

Oil Family Donation OK'd By Senator

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Gold-
water (R-Ariz.) says he accepted
a campaign contribution from a
member of the family that controls
Superior Oil Co. of California.

Goldwater added that he doesn't
think this should affect his membership on a special Senate committee planning a broad investigation of lobbying and campaign contributions.

He said he could name "four or
five Democrats who received contributions" from the same source
He did not elaborate.

The special investigating committee and another, smaller Senate group were set up after Sen.
Francis Case (R-SD) disclosed he
rejected a $2,500 campaign fund
offer during the recent Senate debate on the natural gas bill.

The money offered Case was
traced by the smaller special committee to personal funds of Howard B. Keck, president of Superior
Oil. John M. Neff, an oil company
lawyer-lobbyist who made the offer, testified there were "no strings
attached."

This committee, which is limiting its inquiry to the Case matter,
was ready to try again today to
pin down whether Neff offered to contribute Keck funds to the re-
election campaign of Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa). The committee
last week heard conflicting testimony on this point.

The committee has taken testimony from Robert K. Goodwin, Iowa Republican national committeeman, that Neff made two offers
of $2,500 and $1,000, to Hickenlooper's
campaign. Neff denied making
either offer and said he talked

Weekend Mishaps Kill 13 In Ohio

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio's weekend
traffic fatalities declined sharply from the toll of the preceding weekend.

Ten persons were killed on the state's highways compared with 25
the previous weekend.

An Associated Press survey of accidental deaths takes in the period from 6 p. m. Friday to last midnight. In other type accidents,
three men were killed.

Settlement Eyed At Westinghouse

WASHINGTON (AP)—A government "package" plan for settling
the 141-day Westinghouse strike
proposes giving the company the
five-year contract it wants and the striking union its desired arbitration rights.

Both the company and the International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE) had the settlement plan under active consideration today. The plan represents concessions for both sides.

Company and union representatives arranged to meet this afternoon with the three-man federal
mediation service panel which
proposed the settlement package,
in efforts to get phases of the plan
"clarified." The IUE's 75-member Westinghouse conference board
was due to meet tonight to consider the plan.

Reliable sources said these are
the features of the proposal:

1. The company would get the
five-year contract it wants, patterned after a five-year agreement

reached between the IUE and General Electric last August.

2. THE UNION would have the right to renegotiate wage rates
locally after each year of the contract, with the right to strike locally in behalf of demands. This is a major proposal in the IUE's
favor. Westinghouse opposed any such reopenings or strike rights.

3. Wage increases, from the standpoint of total cost to the company, would be the same as the offer before the strike began, but
the appointment between types of
workers has been changed.

Where Westinghouse had proposed an annual pay increase
range from 4% to 12 cents an hour,
the plan apparently calls for a 5-12 cent range.

This would give the lowest-
paid workers a minimum of 26
cents an hour in pay increases
during the five years, instead of
the 23% cent minimum proposed
by Westinghouse.

4. The plan makes a major concession to the IUE on the time
study issue which had been perhaps the most argued of all. Westinghouse had proposed a study of
day work (non-incentive type) jobs
with the idea of creating work
standards to promote production
efficiency and lower labor costs.

The IUE objected to such a study
and demanded arbitration rights.
The settlement plan proposes the
company have sole rights to make
the study and set up work standards, but the IUE would have the

It also will cut the cost, he
added, from the $10,000 to $50,
000 needed to fire an actual test
missile to $200 to $2,000 for a
model missile "depending on the
complexity of the experiments." The missile can be test-
fired and photographed in the laboratory.

The 7,000-mile-an-hour speed
attained with the test gun compares with a projected 18,000
m.p.h. speed of the proposed
earth satellite, which the United States hopes to launch within two
years.

Supergun Fires Missile About 7000 Miles Hour

WASHINGTON (AP)—A super-
gun which can test-fire a missile
the size of a golf ball at 7,000
miles an hour was disclosed today.

Dr. Zaka I. Slawsky of the U. S. Naval Ordnance Laboratory at nearby White Oak, Md.,
said in prepared remarks the
gun "finally removes much of
the trial and error from missile
research."

It also will cut the cost, he
added, from the $10,000 to $50,
000 needed to fire an actual test
missile to $200 to $2,000 for a
model missile "depending on the
complexity of the experiments." The missile can be test-
fired and photographed in the
laboratory.

The 7,000-mile-an-hour speed
attained with the test gun com-
pares with a projected 18,000
m.p.h. speed of the proposed
earth satellite, which the United
years.

3 Jewish Cops Slain As Foes Exchange Fire

U. N. Truce Supervisor
Checking; Westerners
Dread Chain Reaction

JERUSALEM (AP)—A new Syrian-Israeli clash brought new fear of
war closer to the seething Middle East today.

Three Israeli policemen were killed as the two sides exchanged
fire on the shores of the Sea of Galilee yesterday less than 48
hours after Jordan's King Hussein
fired British Lt. Gen. John Bagot
Glubb, the veteran Arab Legion
chief.

The enraged Israelis branded
the latest Galilee incident "a wanton attack. The Syrians still held one wounded Israeli police-
man."

Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, chief
U. N. truce supervisor, said his
men were continuing their investigation of the clash but that his
headquarters has not received a full report.

Burns goes to Cairo tomorrow
for talks on the tense Egyptian-
Israeli border situation. Walter Eytan, director general of the Israeli Foreign Ministry, called on
him today to express his government's "serious concern about Egyptian troop concentrations in
the Gaza Strip."

Eytan also protested "repeated
firing" on Israeli outposts by Egyptian positions in the strip.

WESTERN diplomats expressed
open concern the Galilee clash
might set off a chain reaction at
a time when tensions are at their highest since the Arabs and Israelis fought in 1948.

"It's just this sort of shooting
incident that can explode into a
full-scale war right now," said
one Western diplomat.

In another incident today, an Egyptian military spokesman said
outposts after a one-hour exchange
of fire east of Khan Yunes, south
of Gaza.

The spokesman charged the Israelis started the firing but said
there were no Egyptian casualties.
Egypt protested to the Mixed Armistice Commission.

Western circles feared Israel
might use the latest incident to launch a "preventive war" while
she felt she still enjoyed military
superiority.

There was also apprehension
that with Arab nationalism flushed
to a new high by pride over Glubb's ouster, the Arab states
might decide to go into action.

Jordan's dismissal of its military head brought a flurry of activity in Middle East and Asian capitals.

Syria's Premier Said el Ghazzi
flew to Cairo with his defense
Syrian President Shukri Kuwailat
they were to confer with Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser on the Egyptian-Syrian defense pact.

El Ghazzi announced earlier
that Syria, Egypt and Saudi Arabia,
all linked in mutual defense
pacts, would go to Jordan's aid
should Israel attack.

Meanwhile, Britain's Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, who visited
New Delhi en route to the SEATO meeting in Karachi, responded Britain's proposal that Israeli and Arab forces withdraw
from Israel's frontier.

LOYD RECOMMENDED that
the U. N. Palestine truce commission be increased to patrol the demilitarized zone and prevent incidents.

Egypt earlier proposed such a
pullback to provide a buffer zone
along the Palestine armistice line,
but Israel was cool to the idea.

Israel's Prime Minister Ben-
Gurion defied Jordan to start
trouble. He told members of his Majlis party at a meeting near Tel Aviv he had heard King Hussein declared "he is now ready to destroy Israel."

The Israeli Foreign Ministry
threatened stern countermeasures
unless Syria returned the captured policemen.

The bodies of two Israeli policemen were returned last night
and another today after the Syrians had handed them over to U. N. officials. The Syrians also returned two Israeli police launches they had seized.

The Syrians said they suffered
no casualties in the clash.
Yesterday's clash began before

Ohio Boy, 17, Admits Theft From Mother

BARBERTON (AP)—A 17-year-old boy who wore a black hood and disguised his voice held up his mother at gunpoint and drove off
in her new automobile without being recognized.

Last Friday night Mrs. Ruth Stamp was surprised by a masked gunman when she was parking her car behind her home. The gunman forced her to drive the car to a dead-end street, then put her out of the automobile and drove away,
she told detectives.

Last night three teen-age couples were arrested after wrecking the car in a ditch on U. S. 21 while trying to outspeed police.

One of the six was 17-year-old Jack Stamp, and he admitted the theft of his mother's car.

The weekend spree began Friday night when the youth took an automobile owned by the Stamp boy's father, Haskell.

The car had been parked with the key in the ignition. Later this car was abandoned for the newer

Dayton Physician Killed In Home

DAYTON (AP)—Police today sought an unknown gunman who killed a 65-year-old Dayton physician while he sat watching a television program in his home.

Dead is Dr. James H. Gunn who was struck by bullets fired through a living room window last night.
He was wounded in the nose, chest
and abdomen as he sat in an easy chair watching the TV.

Dr. Gunn's wife was lying on a couch in the same room when four bullets crashed through the window. She was uninjured.

Meanderings By Wash Fayette

I noted Sunday that Logan Elm
State Park, located some six miles
south of Circleville, off Route 23,
has a new monument.

GOP Solon Says Lausche 'Tough'

(By The Associated Press)
Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said last night Ohio's Gov. Frank J. Lausche "at this time would be a more difficult" Democratic presidential
"than others who are running."

He said he did not know who
November. Adlai Stevenson is
waging a formidable campaign,
Bridges said. "He (Stevenson)
has a brilliant mind," but "may
talk himself out in eight or nine
months," Bridges added.

Meanwhile, other top Republicans have begun talking about the kind of reelection campaign President Eisenhower should wage.
And the discussion so far indicates
appearances in some key areas.

The question was discussed yesterday by three Republicans—National Chairman Leonard Hall and Senators Knowland of California
and Goldwater of Arizona.

All three indicated they foresaw
Eisenhower forays into at least a
few major cities.

sonally would ask the President to go into some areas where Republican candidates face strong opposition.

Among the Democrats, Sen. Estes Kefauver had more to say
health as a campaign issue, a position that conflicts with the one
taken by Stevenson.

Kefauver said he doesn't plan to
health. The Tennessee Democrat
added that he has "never ques-
or his looks."

Stevenson said he views Eisenhower's health as a "compelling issue."

Kefauver said he doesn't think
Stevenson is wrong in taking this
position—"It's just that I'm run-

Another Democrat, Sen. Fulbright of Arkansas, said today he
fears discussion of Eisenhower's
health will overshadow what he
called "the really important issue"—foreign policy. He added:
"While we talk about the Presi-

model taken from Mrs. Stamp.

filling station manager here early Sunday and stole $740.
dent's health and whether there is
lasting prosperity, we may be
losing Asia to the Russians."

Knowland, the Senate GOP leader, said he personally would urge
merely television broadcasts from
the White House." He said Eisenhower should make a few campaign appearances in areas where Republican candidates might be in
trouble.

EISENHOWER has rejected any
suggestion of a "barnstorming"
campaign and Knowland said he
vote seeking.

Goldwater, however, predicted
Eisenhower would do some "bar-nstorming" because "he's a campaigner at heart."

Hall said he believes any presidential campaign trips would "be at a minimum"—limited perhaps to a few flying visits to major cities. He said he foresaw no cross-country train trip.

Since Eisenhower said "yes" to
a second term bid, a big question
among Republicans has been who
his running mate will be. Eisen-

An Associated Press poll of GOP governors, state chairmen
and national committee members
showed that 35 per cent of those
responding favor renomination of Nixon. An additional 9 per cent
were for Nixon if Eisenhower
wants him and less than 3 per cent
favored another candidate. Fifty-
four per cent did not comment or
were noncommittal.

COLUMBUS (AP)—Cigarette-
smoking Ohioans were paying a
penny a pack extra today to help
pay for new state buildings.

fairly normal in the trade except
for the cigarette vending machine
business.

That business was in a tizzy over
the problem of how to collect the
extra tax.

The problem was this: Cigarette
vending machines have been selling all packs at 25 cents, regulars,
king-size and filters.

Proprietors of the vending machine business admit this price is
a little high on regular-length cigarettes, but they say the extra
cost of the king-size and filter
brands more than offset this.

continue on regular cigarettes, but
more for kings and filters.

That means the machines must
be converted. A buyer will drop a
quarter in the slot for regulars,
but he'll have to deposit 30 cents
for other cigarettes.

At least two central Ohio vend-
ing machine houses said today
they will pass on to the consumer
not only the extra tax, but the cost
of converting the machines to set a special price on some brands. The change from the 30 cents—probably three pennies—will be slipped inside the pack.

PAULDING (AP)—Common Pleas
Judge Edward W. Kuns of Paul-
ding County, former grand master
Bradenton, Fla. He was 50.

Kuns, in Florida on vacation,
died after a heart attack. His body
will be returned to nearby Payne
where he lived.

Kuns has served one term as
common pleas judge and was running for reelection this year. He was a former Paulding County
prosecutor and had been grand
October.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete. Kuns is survived by his
wife, three daughters and a son,
and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kuns of Payne.

60 Persons Safe As Freighter Sinks

SEATTLE (AP)—Its forward section wrenched off by high winds
and mountainous seas, the freighter Washington Mail sank in the North Pacific minutes after the 60
crewmembers and passengers had taken to lifeboats.

Within a short time, the transport Gen. H. B. Freeman, brought
to the scene by the freighter's
first SOS, dropped rope ladders to the bobbing lifeboats and the 60 survivors scrambled up to safety. "All survivors aboard, uninjured
man radioed.

School Transfer Remonstrance Is Now Under Way

It's Their Privilege
Is Only Comment
By M-T Board Heads

territory around Washington C. H.
from the Miami Trace School District to the Washington C. H.
School District today were being circulated among the voters who
live in that area.

have been out since "the first of
the month" but their actual existence was not certain until confirmed by three of those carrying them until Monday morning.

Union Township Zoning Board of Appeals, said he was the leader of the movement. He said "six or seven persons are circulating the
petitions. His reason for opposing the transfer, he said, was that
he wanted his daughter to continue
to go to Wilson School.

Joe Batson, an employee of the Bargain Store, said he had one of
the petitions but did not name any
others who have them. Other than
and telling them (the voters) to
think it over," he said he had no
comment. He said he thought King
was the prime mover in the re-
city limits.

ROBERT HYER, an employee at
the Armco plant here, said he was
carrying the remonstrance petition
"because we just don't want in the
city school district." The Hyers
live on Hickory Lane, which turns
east off of North North Street
about a quarter of a mile beyond
the city limits.

Hyer said he understood that
King was the leader of the re-
monstrance movement but added
that he had picked up the petitions in the office of the superintendent of the county schools,
W. J. Hilty.

Supt. Hilty denied the petitions
had been prepared by him, but
did say they had been mimeo-
graphed in his office about a week
ago.

He said some of those interested
Trace School District and had
then come to him to get the petitions.

Supt. Hilty explained: "They
(the remonstrators) are still our
people... we are obligated to serve
them insofar as we can answer any questions they have as to procedure."

He added "we (the county school
board) have tried to avoid taking

THE COUNTY School Board
approved the transfer of the belt
from a few rods to nearly two
miles, late the night of Jan. 31,
the last day for transferring territory by board action.

The transfer followed nearly a
month of cooperative negotiations
by the Miami Trace and Washing-
ton C. H. school boards.

Robert Terhune, president of the Washington C. H. board was not
due back in the city until late Monday afternoon and was not
available for comment.

But, Taylor Groff, the president of the Miami Trace Board,
and J. Herbert Perrill, the vice president, both said in substance
that the remonstrance is in accordance with the law and that
of the people.

Groff said that he had not heard
of the remonstrance movement
and Perrill said that although he
had heard some talk about it, he
did not know the petitions were
actually in circulation.

The transfer of territory approved
by the county School Board, for
which Supt. Hilty is the clerk, followed failure of a $1,755,000 bond
issue proposal last November to
build a county high school and improve some of the other schools.
A year ago, all the school districts is the county, with the exception of Jefferson, Bloomington

and Paint were consolidated.

issue, the county board transferred
the Miami Trace District.

Shortly after that, negotiations
for the transfer of the belt of territory were started in an atmosphere of complete harmony.

Meanwhile, petitions were circulated to transfer a large area
of continuous territory from the
Washington C. H. district.

These petitions were held insufficient and invalid by the county
board at its last official meeting
a check of the signatures and a
counter-petition.

However, Mrs. C. E. Rhoad, one
of the prime movers in this petitioning, has insisted that this group of petitioners will carry their fight on — through legal action into the courts if necessary.

BULLETIN
George F. Baldrige, on trial
here for the fatal shooting of
game protector Irvin Patrick,
took the stand in his own defense
within a half hour after the trial
reopened Monday afternoon.

Baldrige followed Everett
Holcomb, a Portsmouth gunsmith
who was called as surprise witness for the defense.

Everett Holcomb, a Portsmouth
gunsmith, was the first witness to
take the stand Monday afternoon

mate in the Navy.
He identified the gun used in the
fatal shooting as a Remington
Under questioning by Emory F.
Smith, attorney for the defense, he
said that the safety mechanism on
the gun has not been used in guns
manufactured in the United States
for 25 years.

When court reconvened at 1 P.
M., a crowd estimated at 75 was
waiting outside the door for seats
in the spectators' gallery.

in the gallery, 18 folding chairs had
been added to the section to ac-

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Gold-
water (R-Ariz.) says he accepted
a campaign contribution from a
Superior Oil Co. of California.

Goldwater added that he doesn't
think this should affect his membership on a special Senate committee planning a broad investigation of lobbying and campaign contributions.

He said he could name "four or
five Democrats who received contributions" from the same source.
He did not elaborate.

The special investigating committee and another, smaller Senate group were set up after Sen.
Francis Case (R-S.D.) disclosed he
offer during the recent Senate debate on the natural gas bill.

The money offered Case was
traced by the smaller special committee to personal funds of Howard B. Keck, president of Superior
Oil. John M. Neff, an oil company
lawyer-lobbyist who made the offer, testified there were "no strings
attached."

This committee, which is limit-
ing its inquiry to the Case matter,
was ready to try again today to
pin down whether Neff offered to
contribute Keck funds to the re-
election campaign of Sen. Hicken-
looper (R-Iowa). The committee
last week heard conflicting testimony on this point.

The committee has taken testimony from Robert K. Goodwin, Iowa Republican national commit-
teeman, that Neff made two offers,
of $2,500 and $1,000, to Hickenlooper's
campaign. Neff denied making
either offer and said he talked

Supergun Fires Missile About 7000 Miles Hour

WASHINGTON (AP)—A super-
gun which can test-fire a missile
the size of a golf ball at 7,000
miles an hour was disclosed today.

Dr. Zaka I. Slawsky of the U. S. Naval Ordnance Laboratory at nearby White Oak, Md.,
said in prepared remarks the
gun "finally removes much of
the trial and error from missile
research."

It also will cut the cost, he
added, from the $10,000 to $50,
000 needed to fire an actual test
missile from $200 to $2,000 for a model missile "depending on the complexity of the experiments." The missile can be test-
fired and photographed in the
laboratory.

The 7,000-mile-an-hour speed
attained with the test gun com-
pares with a projected 18,000
m.p.h. speed of the proposed
earth satellite, which the United
years.

Settlement Eyed At Westinghouse

ment "package" plan for settling
the 141-day Westinghouse strike
proposes giving the company the
five-year contract it wants and the
striking union its desired arbitra-
tion rights.

Both the company and the International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE) had the settlement plan under active consideration today. The plan represents concessions for both sides.

Company and union representatives arranged to meet this afternoon with the three-man federal
mediation service panel which
proposed the settlement package,
in efforts to get phases of the plan
"clarified." The IUE's 75-member
Westinghouse conference board
was due to meet tonight to consider the plan.

Reliable sources said these are
the features of the proposal:
1. The company would get the
five-year contract it wants, pat-
terned after a five-year agreement

reached between the IUE and General Electric last August.

2. THE UNION would have the
right to renegotiate wage rates
locally after each year of the contract, with the right to strike locally in behalf of demands. This
is a major proposal in the IUE's
favor. Westinghouse opposed any
such reopenings or strike rights.

3. Wage increases, from the standpoint of total cost to the company, would be the same as the standpoint of what the company offered before the strike began, but
the appointment between types of
workers has been changed.

Where Westinghouse had proposed an annual pay increase
range from 4 1/2 to 12 cents an hour,
the plan apparently calls for a 5-12 cent range.

This would give the lowest-
paid workers a minimum of 26
cents an hour in pay increases
during the five years, instead of
the 23 1/2 cent minimum proposed
by Westinghouse.

4. The plan makes a major concession to the IUE on the time
study issue which had been perhaps the most argued of all. Westinghouse had proposed a study of
day work (non-incentive type) jobs
with the idea of creating work
standards to promote production
efficiency and lower labor costs.
The IUE objected to such a study
and demanded arbitration rights.

The settlement plan proposes the
company have sole rights to make
the study and set up work standards, but the IUE would have the
right of arbitration.

Bungling Yeggs Only Damage Safe

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—A Norman automobile agency will have to call in professional safecrackers
to finish a job started by unsuccessful amateurs.

Police said the would-be thieves apparently attacked the safe with everything from welding equipment to crowbars, but succeeded
only in jamming the safe so it could not be opened. The safe,
at the Cook Studebaker Agency, contained about $1,500 in cash and checks.

The thieves got only about 28 cents left in a cash drawer for their troubles.

Lima Gro-Cord To Resume Work

LIMA (AP)—Production was getting under way slowly today at Gro-Cord Rubber Co. here after settlement of a six-month-old strike
by members of Local 85, United Rubber Workers, AFL-CIO.

Gro-Cord President Forest Moor
said 97 workers are to be called back by Thursday. He said the company hopes eventually to build production at the shoe heel and sole plant back to pre-strike level
when some 200 production workers were employed.

The union accepted a contract providing an average pay rate of $1.80 per hour, 16 cents less than the pre-strike average of $1.96.

3 Jewish Cops Slain As Foes Exchange Fire

U. N. Truce Supervisor
Checking; Westerners

Israeli clash brought new fear of
war closer to the seething Middle East today.

Three Israeli policemen were
killed as the two sides exchanged
fire on the shores of the Sea of Galilee yesterday less than 48
hours after Jordan's King Hussein
fired British Lt. Gen. John Bagot
Glubb, the veteran Arab Legion
chief.

The enraged Israelis branded
the latest Galilee incident "a wanton attack. The Syrians still
held one wounded Israeli police-
man.

Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, chief
U. N. truce supervisor, said his
men were continuing their investigation of the clash but that his
headquarters has not received a
full report.

Burns goes to Cairo tomorrow
for talks on the tense Egyptian-
Israeli border situation. Walter Ey-
tan, director general of the Israeli Foreign Ministry, called on
him today to express his government's "serious concern about Egyptian troop concentrations in
the Gaza Strip."

Eytan also protested "repeated
firing" on Israeli outposts by
Egyptian positions in the strip.

WESTERN diplomats expressed
open concern the Galilee clash
might set off a chain reaction at
a time when tensions are at their
highest since the Arabs and Is-
raelis fought in 1948.

"It's just this sort of shooting
incident that can explode into a
full-scale war right now," said
one Western diplomat.

In another incident today, an Egyptian military spokesman said
outposts after a one-hour exchange
of fire east of Khan Yunes, south
of Gaza.

The spokesman charged the Israelis started the firing but said
there were no Egyptian casualties.
Egypt protested to the Mixed Armistice Commission.

Western circles feared Israel
might use the latest incident to
launch a "preventive war" while
she felt she still enjoyed military
superiority.

There was also apprehension
that with Arab nationalism flushed
to a new high by pride over
might decide to go into action.

Jordan's dismissal of its military head brought a flurry of activity in Middle East and Asian capitals.

Syria's Premier Said el Ghazzi
flew to Cairo with his defense
Syrian President Shukri Kuwailat
they were to confer with Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser on the Egyptian-Syrian defense pact.

that Syria, Egypt and Saudi Arabia, all linked in mutual defense
pacts, would go to Jordan's aid
should Israel attack.

Meanwhile, Britain's Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, who visited New Delhi en route to the SEATO meeting in Karachi, repeated Britain's proposal that Israeli and Arab forces withdraw
from Israel's frontier.

LLOYD RECOMMENDED that
the U. N. Palestine truce commission be increased to patrol the
demilitarized zone and prevent incidents.

Egypt earlier proposed such a
pullback to provide a buffer zone
along the Palestine armistice line,
but Israel was cool to the idea.

Israel's Prime Minister Ben-
Gurion defied Jordan to start
trouble. He told members of his Mapai party at a meeting near Tel Aviv he had heard King Hus-
sein declared "he is now ready to destroy Israel."

The Israeli Foreign Ministry
threatened stern countermeasures
unless Syria returned the captured
policeman.

The bodies of two Israeli policemen were returned last night
and another today after the Syrians had handed them over to U. N. officials. The Syrians also returned two Israeli police launch-
es they had seized.

The Syrians said they suffered
no casualties in the clash.

Meanderings

By Wash Fayette

I noted Sunday that Logan Elm
State Park, located some six miles
south of Circleville, off Route 23,
has a new monument.

It was paid for and erected by Frank Sharp, well known farmer
of near Kingston, and is a memorial to the Indian Chief, Cornstalk, who was defeated in a battle with the whites at Point Pleasant, W.
Va., and later surrendered.

Cornstalk was born on Scippo Creek some two miles from the Logan Elm.

The bronze plaque with appropriate wording is set in a large granite boulder, cemented to a base of heavy stones which formerly were in a bridge abutment at Scippo Creek.

Romanian Communists Demonstrating New Terror, Dump Bodies On Street

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Reliably informants reported today
that Romania's Communist government has launched a new wave of terror, executing hundreds of opponents and dumping bodies on the street.

The informants said they had checked and doublechecked the reports because of their "unbelievable nature." They claimed several hundred persons, apparently had been executed summarily in recent months.

The sources said the first reports of the executions and public display of bodies on the streets came from refugees reaching the West as early as last autumn.

The refugee reports were later confirmed, it was said, and since then new and fresher reports of the terror wave have been reaching Western sources.

By exhibiting the bodies on the street, Romania's Red regime apparently wished to terrorize the population and warn that opposition would not be tolerated.

The sources here said one refugee from Romania reported seeing three or four corpses lying in front of a textile store in Bucharest
last December.

The refugee said "the Communist police told passersby that the
victims had been caught trying to rob the store." Other reports indicated bodies seen on Romanian
streets may have been brought
from the cellars of the secret police prisons.

One refugee from Timisoara, in western Romania, was quoted as saying he saw 14 dead bodies

sprawled on the sidewalks of the city in one day. The refugee declared the bodies were guarded by Russian soldiers and no one dared approach them to identify them.

The corpses were left on the sidewalks for three days, guarded day
and night, he added.

Some refugees believed the victims were former prison inmates, freed under a recent amnesty, who had talked too much about their experiences.

Others were said to think those slain were persons who had taken
too freely newly proclaimed
"rights" to criticize the regime.

The sources here said one refugee from Romania reported seeing three or four corpses lying in
front of a textile store in Bucharest
last December.

The refugee said "the Communist police told passersby that the
victims had been caught trying to
rob the store." Other reports indicated bodies seen on Romanian
streets may have been brought
from the cellars of the secret police prisons.

County Auditor Urging Prompt Payment of Tax

Says Personal And Intangible Returns Coming In Slowly

County Auditor Harry R. Allen and his office staff members have indicated that they are growing somewhat concerned over the lesser number of returns of personal and intangible tax reports so far this year.

Auditor Allen says that the returns are approximately 40 behind the number filed last year, up to the close of business last Saturday in the office, even though there was an extra day for collection this year, February 29.

Taxpayers are allowed up to and including March 31 to get in these returns. If they are delayed until the last few days of the month it will mean that people cannot be promptly given attention when they go to the auditor's office and may have to stand in line.

RIGHT NOW is the time to file, Auditor Allen says, since the office staff is in position to take care of each taxpayer very soon after he comes in.

Only 443 returns had been filed including Saturday which is only about one-fifth of the taxpayers expected to file.

That the state Department of Taxation, senses the situation which is similar in most Ohio counties, Stanley Bowers, the tax commissioner has asked all auditors to acquaint taxpayers with the urgency of getting in their returns.

In his statement to county auditors he says:

"THE PRESENT need of additional revenue by local government is urgent. We all know that each year substantial revenue is lost because all who are subject to these taxes do not file returns. This places an additional burden of taxation upon persons who file returns.

Many fail to file returns because of their ignorance of the law, others because of dishonesty or indifference to their legal obligations.

"On or before March 31, 1956, all persons, partnerships, associations, and corporations engaged in business, such as manufacturers, merchants, farmers, lawyers, doctors, dentists, accountants, and others, are required to file personal property tax returns with the county auditor.

"All residents of Ohio owning intangible property, regardless of its use, such as stocks, bonds, notes, and other intangible property, are also required to file returns with the county auditor. Individuals, partnerships, corporations and associations must file returns with the auditor in each county where the taxpayer owns a taxable property. Mandatory penalties are provided by statute for the filing of returns after March 31, 1956.

"THE RATE OF tax on tangible property varies from locality to locality according to need and is identical with the rate on real estate and public utility property for a given taxing district.

"In the intangible property category, productive investments are taxed at 5 percent of the income yield, unproductive investments at two mills on each dollar valuation and deposits two mills on the dollar. Money, credits and other taxable intangibles are taxed at three mills on each dollar valuation.

"All tax collected is paid to the local county treasurer and is used for local schools, libraries, health, police and fire services."

Fish and Game Meeting Set Up

Plans To Get Logs For Lodge To Be Laid

Plans for the second step in the building of the lodge are to be laid at Thursday night's meeting of the Fayette County Fish and Game Association.

The time and place of the meeting have been changed from those of past months; the place is now the Fayette Grange Hall on Elm Street and the time is 8 o'clock Thursday night.

Until a month ago, the meetings were usually held on Monday or Tuesday nights at the Farm Bureau auditorium or the Dayton Power & Light Co. auditorium.

Willard Holden, the president of the association, said the agenda for Thursday night's meeting was topped with the lodge building plans. He said that in all probability a work crew would be formed to go down in the hills to Turkey Ridge next Sunday to bring the logs that were cut out to the road and then by truck to the lodge site on Rattlesnake Creek near Buena Vista.

However, he conceded that the weather would play an important part in the operations. But, because more members of the association are free on Sunday, the president said the members would rather get the logs out on Sunday.

ON THE SATURDAY and Sunday afternoons of Feb. 25 and 26 a bunch of more than a score of members of the Association went to Turkey Ridge and cut 280 sassafras logs of 8 to 10 inches in diameter for the walls of the lodge and 50 poplar logs for the gable ends.

The 35 more poplar poles that will be needed for the rafters were cut later in accordance with arrangements made by Walter P. Thompson, a former president of the association who has a peach orchard and summer cottage atop Turkey Ridge.

The association paid 50 cents a tree to Arthur Johnson on whose land they grew. But, it was up to the association members to get the logs out of the hills and to the lodge site; this is what is to be at the Thursday night meeting.

Also to come up for discussion at this meeting, the president said, will be the controversial question of a hunting season for quail. Several years ago, the Ohio Legislature took the quail off of the song bird list and put in on the game bird list, but hunting has never been legalized.

Much of the discussion, the president said, probably would center around the Bob White Club of Ohio, which has been organized to back effort to have hunting of quail legalized. Membership, he said, is $1 a year and, he added, the club promoters have set their sights on a membership of $100,000.

Several committees are to be appointed at this meeting, too, but the president did not say what they were.

at the University, Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Bud Brownell and Dr. and Mrs. N. M. Reiff, parents of the young ladies, attended the initiation ceremonies.

Mrs. John Alexander of New Holland, entered Memorial Hospital, Saturday for surgery and was released Sunday.

Blessed Events

Mr. and Mrs. Welton Roberts, Route 1, New Holland, are the parents of a five pound, thirteen ounce daughter, born Saturday at 3:22 P. M., in Memorial Hospital.

A daughter, weighing eight pounds, four and one half ounces, was born in Memorial Hospital, Sunday at 8:40 P. M., to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hobbie, 611 Oak Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Fennig of Greenfield, are the parents of a seven pound, fifteen ounce son, born in Memorial Hospital at 9:05 P. M., Sunday.

Baldridge Trial

had been waiting for seats since early morning.

At 10 A. M. Monday 10 women and one man were waiting in line for court to open three hours later.

"We have had our dinner," one woman in a group of four, stated. Some of the others had lunches with them.

IT WAS THE sixth day of the Baldridge trial, with indications that testimony might be completed, arguments made and the case go to the jury by Tuesday afternoon or Wednesday at the latest.

However, this was problematical, inasmuch as several witnesses, both for the state and the defense, had been excused subject to recall, and it was possible that considerable time might be taken further examination of these witnesses.

During the several days the examination of witnesses has been under way, the state has sought to prove that the shot from George Baldridge's shotgun was fired deliberately and during the heat of anger on the part of Baldridge when Game Protector Irvin J. Patrick refused to release Donald

$40,009 Paid To Aged Here In February

A total of $40,009 in aid to the aged payments went to 708 Fayette Countyans last month, and another $2,099.14 in health care payments went to 46 persons here.

The aid payments, averaging $56.51 per person, were made through the Aid to the Aged office here.

Funds for aid payments in all but one case came from both the state and federal governments. In that one case, the federal government did not participate.

Health care payments, issued from the same office, averaged $45.63.

The statewide total of $5,561,297.00 in February aid payments was divided among 99,373 recipients, with payments averaging $55.96 per person. Health care assistance to 8,853 Ohioans totaled $282,283.78.

The six counties surrounding Fayette listed the following totals in aid and health payments: Clinton, $48,914 in aid to 842 persons and $4,128.07 in health to 92; Greene, $45,275 in aid to 793 and $1,963.28 in health to 34; Highland, $55,123 in aid to 957 and $1,430.48 in health to 14;

Madison, $30,402 in aid to 529 and $2,011.33 in health to 67; Pickaway, $41,000 in aid to 733 and $3,123.67 in health to 89; and Ross, $68,573 in aid to 1,215 and $3,547.67 in health to 99.

Butler, whom he had arrested for possessing two hen pheasants, one of which admittedly was killed by Baldridge.

On the other hand, the defense has been endeavoring to show that Baldridge was not angry and that the fatal shot was fired unintentionally by Baldridge.

WHEN THE state rested its case, the defense moved for a directed verdict of acquittal of Baldridge

The association paid 50 cents a tree to Arthur Johnson on whose land they grew. But, it was up to the association members to get the logs out of the hills and to the lodge site; this is what is to be at the Thursday night meeting.

Also to come up for discussion at this meeting, the president said, will be the controversial question of a hunting season for quail. Several years ago, the Ohio Legislature took the quail off of the song bird list and put in on the game bird list, but hunting has never been legalized.

Much of the discussion, the president said, probably would center around the Bob White Club of Ohio, which has been organized to back effort to have hunting of quail legalized. Membership, he said, is $1 a year and, he added, the club promoters have set their sights on a membership of $100,000.

Several committees are to be appointed at this meeting, too, but the president did not say what they were.

at the University, Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Bud Brownell and Dr. and Mrs. N. M. Reiff, parents of the young ladies, attended the initiation ceremonies.

At 10 A. M. Monday 10 women and one man were waiting in line for court to open three hours later.

"We have had our dinner," one woman in a group of four, stated. Some of the others had lunches with them.

IT WAS THE sixth day of the Baldridge trial, with indications that testimony might be completed, arguments made and the case go to the jury by Tuesday afternoon or Wednesday at the latest.

However, this was problematical, inasmuch as several witnesses, both for the state and the defense, had been excused subject to recall, and it was possible that considerable time might be taken in further examination of these witnesses.

During the several days the examination of witnesses has been under way, the state has sought to prove that the shot from George Baldridge's shotgun was fired deliberately and during the heat of anger on the part of Baldridge when Game Protector Irvin J. Patrick refused to release Donald

$40,009 Paid To Aged Here In February

A total of $40,009 in aid to the aged payments went to 708 Fayette County residents last month, and another $2,099.14 in health care payments went to 46 persons here.

The aid payments, averaging $56.51 per person, were made through the Aid to the Aged office here.

Funds for aid payments in all but one case came from both the state and federal governments. In that one case, the federal government did not participate.

The statewide total of $5,561,297.00 in February aid payments was divided among 99,373 recipients, with payments averaging $55.96 per person. Health care assistance to 8,853 Ohioans totaled $282,283.78.

The six counties surrounding Fayette listed the following totals in aid and health payments: Clinton, $48,914 in aid to 842 persons and $4,128.07 in health to 92; Greene, $45,275 in aid to 793 and $1,963.28 in health to 34; Highland, $55,123 in aid to 957 and $1,430.48 in health to 14;

Madison, $30,402 in aid to 529 and $2,011.33 in health to 67; Pickaway, $41,000 in aid to 733 and $3,123.67 in health to 89; and Ross, $68,573 in aid to 1,215 and $3,547.67 in health to 99.

Butler, whom he had arrested for possessing two hen pheasants, one of which admittedly was killed by Baldridge.

On the other hand, the defense has been endeavoring to show that Baldridge was not angry and that the fatal shot was fired unintentionally by Baldridge.

and, when this was overruled, sought to have the charge of second degree murder, which carries with it a penalty of life imprisonment in the Ohio Penitentiary, reduced to manslaughter, the penalty for which is much less. This motion, too, was denied by Judge Case.

Deep interest has been manifested in the outcome of the case, not only here but throughout the state.

Several unusual features of the case include the dropping of one juror and using the thirteenth juror to take her place. Mrs. Jeanette Coffey was excused when her brother, Richard Croker, died unexpectedly in his car in Columbus Friday. The nervous collapse of Donald Butler, defense witness, presented another unusual turn of events.

There were rumors afloat that Donald Butler would be recalled to the stand by the State.

Ten witnesses were offered by the state, and only five had been subpoenaed and examined for the defense when court adjourned at 2:30 P. M. Friday until 1 P. M. Monday, upon request of counsel.

Old Orange Peel Now Hot Market Item

Aid For Common Cold Seen In Chemical Found In Fruit

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — Because so many people will try anything at least once in hope of relief from the common cold there's a growing market today for old orange peels.

Newcomer in the long line of treatments to rise to their peak day of popularity is bioflavonoid, a chemical extracted from the orange and lemon peels left over by processors of citrus fruit.

In two years output of this yellow powder — formerly used in moderate volume in a number of industrial products — has jumped from 5,000 pounds a year to 150,000 pounds. Sales volume is now estimated at $1,800,000 a year against $60,000 two years ago.

Doctors previously had used bioflavonoids in treating ailments ranging from chicken pox to coronary thrombosis. Then they began trying out its antiscorbutic properties. Demand from a long suffering but always sporting public sent production up 30-fold.

Scientists at a recent meeting sponsored by the Common Cold Foundation Inc. warned that no cure has yet been found for the common cold.

Nearly two dozen pharmaceutical firms, market bioflavonoid preparations. They are careful to stress that it is supposed to relieve symptoms rather than to cure.

They buy the bulk of their citrus bioflavonoids from Sunset Growers Assn. of California and Pasco Products Co. of Florida. These producers get cast-off peels from their own and other canneries.

Iowa Seeking Big Ten Title

CHICAGO (AP)—Iowa's determined Hawkeyes will be out to clinch their second straight Big Ten basketball title tonight when they take on Indiana. Meanwhile up at Minnesota Robin Freeman of Ohio State will be shooting for a new conference scoring record.

The Hawkeyes need only to beat Indiana at Iowa City to qualify for the NCAA tournament regardless of what second-place Illinois does.

Iowa took care of that Saturday when it humiliated Illinois, 96-72, in a nationally televised game at Iowa City. The triumph assured the Hawkeyes of at least a tie in the Western Conference.

Tebbetts Stresses Plain Fundamentals

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Manager Birdie Tebbetts has mapped out a steady diet of review of fundamentals this week for the Cincinnati Redlegs, and planned another intrasquad skirmish.

Rookie Frank Robinson clubbed out a homer, double and a single for the team headed by Charley Harmon which defeated the Johnny Temples, 7-5, in yesterday's first spring training intrasquad game.

Tebbetts singled out four rookies, Outfielders Robinson and Curtis Flood and Pitchers Charley Rabe and Jack Taylor, as "real good looking players."

High School Blackboards Are Refinished

CLEANING OFF MORE THAN 40 YEARS' accumulation of nicks and scratches on the blackboards in the old Washington C. H. High School building, this big machine sands away the surface layer of slate and sucks the resulting dust up in a built-in "vacuum cleaner." Operating the machine is Elmer Thomason of Waltz, Mich. The job of cleaning up 1,663 square feet of blackboard in 18 classrooms was completed this past week end. Supt. W. A. Smith said that according to his records, this marked the first time the job had been done since the building was erected in 1914. The $415.81 refitting job made the boards "like new," Supt. Smith said.

Minister Convinced Religion Has Link With Psychiatry

PARSONS, Kan. (AP)—A tall, gentle-voiced clergyman from North Dakota is spending his first Lent in an unusual new offshoot of the ministry—as a psychiatric chaplain.

The Rev. Sigurd Peterson, a native of Kenmare, N. D., a clergyman in the Middle West for some 20 years, said today he found his present job "the most satisfying of my life."

He serves as fulltime chaplain at the Parsons State Training School for Mentally Retarded Children. He is a Lutheran.

In preparation for the task, he took a rigorous nine-month course in psychiatry at a Topeka, Kan., hospital. He is convinced religion has much common ground with that branch of medicine.

At the Parsons hospital, which does some pioneer work in the field of mental retardation, the chaplaincy is on an equal basis with other clinical services.

Nearly 500 mentally handicapped children and young people between 6 and 21 are at Parsons.

THE MINISTER'S religious message is painstakingly adapted to the children's limited understanding, as well as to their individual needs.

Consequently, it is short on theology and abstract notions, long on emotion and simple faith.

"I stress God's love," he said. "The youngsters have very great emotional needs, and I find them profoundly responsive to this aspect of religion."

"One of the things religion has to say to these children is that they are significant in spite of their handicap, that they count equally in God's sight."

The chaplain conducts two services each Sunday morning, one for the children and one for the adults.

Fire-Slaying Principal Dies Of Injuries

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—James M. Leech of Lima is dead. A former Army captain, he was a central figure in the investigation of the still unsolved axe-fire slayings of three fellow officers at Passau, Germany 10 years ago.

Leech died Saturday night of burns he received Feb. 21 in a flash fire at an oil company refinery here where he worked.

The charred bodies of Maj. Everett S. Cofran, formerly of Washington, D. C., Capt. Adrian L. Wessler of New Rochelle, N. Y., and 1st Lt. Stanley Rosewater of

Omaha, Neb. were recovered Jan. 7, 1946, from a burned villa next to the one Leech occupied on the banks of the Danube River.

Charges were filed against Leech eight years later after he had been honorably discharged from the Army.

Lack of evidence prevented his extradition and the charges were finally dropped last June when the High Commission in Germany went out of existence.

Bart E. Sullivan of Pompano Beach, Fla., former chief of the Army's Criminal Investigation Division during World War II, said later he was convinced Leech was innocent.

Survivors include Leech's widow, Phyllis, and a son Alan, 11.

High School Blackboards Are Refinished

CLEANING OFF MORE THAN 40 YEARS' accumulation of nicks and scratches on the blackboards in the old Washington C. H. High School building, this big machine sands away the surface layer of slate and sucks the resulting dust up in a built-in "vacuum cleaner." Operating the machine is Elmer Thomason of Waltz, Mich. The job of cleaning up 1,663 square feet of blackboard in 18 classrooms was completed this past week end. Supt. W. A. Smith said that according to his records, this marked the first time the job had been done since the building was erected in 1914. The $415.81 refinish job made the boards "like new," Supt. Smith said.

Minister Convinced Religion Has Link With Psychiatry

PARSONS, Kan. (AP)—A tall, gentle-voiced clergyman from North Dakota is spending his first Lent in an unusual new offshoot of the ministry—as a psychiatric chaplain.

The Rev. Sigurd Peterson, a native of Kenmare, N. D., a clergyman in the Middle West for some 20 years, said today he found his present job "the most satisfying of my life."

He serves as fulltime chaplain at the Parsons State Training School for Mentally Retarded Children. He is a Lutheran.

In preparation for the task, he took a rigorous nine-month course in psychiatry at a Topeka, Kan., hospital. He is convinced religion has much common ground with that branch of medicine.

At the Parsons hospital, which does some pioneer work in the field of mental retardation, the chaplaincy is on an equal basis with other clinical services.

Nearly 500 mentally handicapped children and young people between 6 and 21 are at Parsons.

THE MINISTER'S religious message is painstakingly adapted to the children's limited understanding, as well as to their individual needs.

Consequently, it is short on theology and abstract notions, long on emotion and simple faith.

"I stress God's love," he said. "The youngsters have very great emotional needs, and I find them profoundly responsive to this aspect of religion."

"One of the things religion has to say to these children is that they are significant in spite of their handicap, that they count equally in God's sight."

The chaplain conducts two services each Sunday morning, one

Fire-Slaying Principal Dies Of Injuries

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—James M. Leech of Lima is dead. A former Army captain, he was a central figure in the investigation of the still unsolved axe-fire slayings of three fellow officers at Passau, Germany 10 years ago.

The charred bodies of Maj. Everett S. Cofran, formerly of Washington, D. C., Capt. Adrian L. Wessler of New Rochelle, N. Y., and 1st Lt. Stanley Rosewater of

Omaha, Neb. were recovered Jan. 7, 1946, from a burned villa next to the one Leech occupied on the banks of the Danube River.

Charges were filed against Leech eight years later after he had been honorably discharged from the Army.

Lack of evidence prevented his extradition and the charges were finally dropped last June when the High Commission in Germany went out of existence.

Bart E. Sullivan of Pompano Beach, Fla., former chief of the Army's Criminal Investigation Division during World War II, said later he was convinced Leech was innocent.

Survivors include Leech's widow, Phyllis, and a son Alan, 11.

Careening Truck Kills 2 In House

PITTSBURGH (AP)—In a few terror filled seconds a happy Sunday afternoon turned into one of horror near here when tons of steel rods from a careening truck slammed into a combination store and home and killed two of the three women in the dwelling. The trucker driver, 46-year-old Anthony Marsilli of Pittsburgh, escaped unhurt.

Killed instantly were Mrs. Helen Clark, 52, of RD 1, Coraopolis, and Mrs. Susan Druga, 45, of Imperial, visitors in the home.

Mrs. Francis Kaelin, 49, who lived there, suffered lacerations and shock.

The Socialistic Appeal Still Attracts Votes

Here in a stable locality like Fayette County, not many people actually realize the under-cover and constantly arising threat of more and more Socialism in government caused by so many different groups seeking guarantees of their own security through so-called government support. This has a seductive appeal.

With high taxes being objected to on the one hand, there are just as many people on the other side who feel that in from one to a dozen ways the government should do more for them.

Until the present administration's efforts to make the general public realize that the government cannot possibly do all the things demanded of it, there was a lot of shallow thinking on this subject and even today this administration has become unpopular with many different groups which have seen fit to demand that easier ways of life and financing ought to be a duty of government toward all the public. How this could be brought about they have no idea; they just want it.

There were lush days in past years in the times of theorizing in Washington D. C. at the "top level" with federal debt climbing steadily, when seemingly authoritative officials insisted that the whole pattern of American society was being changed, and that we all had to move with it.

Up to that time the principle had been that the people support the government. That is the historic formula handed down by the founding fathers at the birth of the Republic.

Under the new concept, however, the government should support the people. Which, of course, is straight socialism.

From the sordid political point of view, this is the most seductive vote-getting device ever concocted by the brain of man. While it is true that there will always be a few hardy souls who will indignantly refuse such a formula, more and more people can be "sold" on the slick and easy way of achieving "security" without earning it themselves.

Disquieting symptoms still continue that the individual's contribution to savings for his insurance or other funds will be ultimately replaced by an institution in which general taxation furnishes most of the financial reservoir, or perhaps all of it. The tentacles are reaching into the field of education, medicine, housing and other critical fields.

Is the thinking of most Americans drifting too far from a safe shoreline?

He Makes New Start At 66

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—John R. Crooks always did what was to be done. He always smiled, but he also held behind his smile the fierce pride of a true craftsman have in a job they love.

Last summer, after 52 years in the same old salt mine, John Crooks was put out to pasture on a well-earned pension. But, like many another retired man, he became desperately unhappy. He cured himself by going out and taking a job in a new field.

"The best remedy for retirement sickness is work," says Johnny.

Any man wondering how to whip the "retirement blues" might be interested in Johnny's story. Here it is:

In 1903 Johnny, a bandy-legged boy of 14, solemn in the dignity of knee britches and bowler hat, applied for and received the post of night office boy for the Associated Press, then as now the world's largest news gathering organization, for a salary of $4.50 a week. The day office boys got $3.50.

It was a big sacrifice for Johnny. In his heart he really wanted to be a jockey. He was built for it in slimmness of body and a whiplike agility of mind.

Instead he became a typewriter jockey, one of the fastest of his day.

For 40 years he was the news librarian of the Associated Press, filling on cards the history of a generation of news as it was made from day to day.

He also filed it in his heart, and when you asked him for it—well, it was there. Johnny was a long lesson in loyalty. He was strictly an organization man. He didn't get to travel much himself (there was a family to be raised) but he traveled and suffered in spirit with scores of foreign correspondents.

His closest buddy was the late Jim Mills, dean of war reporters in his time, whom Gandhi once said he expected would be waiting to interview him at the gates of heaven. They both have reached the gates since then, but Jim hasn't found a way to get the story through.

When Johnny Crooks, this skinny reservoir of news history, went to pasture last summer there was a big gap left in the office where he had worked for so long.

Johnny wasn't happy either. He cherished the inscribed gold watch (it was what he wanted) and other farewell souvenir gifts for more than half a century of service. He got a pension. He also was free every day to watch tracks where, as a boy, he had dreamed of riding.

But he missed the daily bugle

of duty, the active feeling of belonging.

After nine endless, restless weeks, Johnny heard of a part-time stenographic job in a Wall Street law firm, applied for it and got it.

He found age no handicap in adjusting to a new job technique. He is buoyant again, happy in new loyalties. The name of the firm that gave him this post-retirement break (Johnny says if I mention it please make him a partner) is Flood, Conway, Walsh, Stahl—and Johnny Crooks.

Johnny, chirpy as a cricket now, says idleness is a curse to a longtime working man. He advocates a new start.

"It's a mistake for an employer to look at a man's gray hair and refuse him a job," he said. "Gray matter goes with gray hair and it's always worth hiring."

"It is work that keeps a man young. It is wonderful to learn new things. I've made a lot of new friends. I'm happier now than I've been in many a year." Johnny, who has more bounce to the ounce at 66 than many a man half his age, gives this as his personal recipe for keeping pep.

"Don't dissipate. Don't overeat. Do everything in moderation."

Times Change --- So Do Politics

Probably the most interesting political novel of this generation is "The Last Hurrah" by Edwin O'Connor. The essential truth of this story is that while fashions change and times give the impression of being different, it is only human interests and necessities that really move in new directions. While it is possible to identify the Bostonians of whom Mr. O'Connor writes, it is also possible to duplicate such personalities in other cities, particularly in New York where I would be more familiar with them.

And in both cities, the struggle for position and power was the same and to a degree remains the same except that the nationalities and religions are different. This tale deals with the Irish-Catholic conquest of Boston and ends when the younger generation becomes less cognizant of the reasons for the earlier struggle and drops the old leadership.

In the large northeastern cities, the Irish were usually followed by a large Jewish migration. Up to the time of Hitler, the Jews were rapidly assimilated in the indigenous community, usually taking their places in the political life of both parties. In New York, for instance, up to the time that Al Smith became governor, most of the Jews who entered politics were Republicans and Reformers. This was largely a German-Jewish community under which term must be included Hungarian and Bohemian Jews.

The Russian and Polish Jewish communities came later and had to struggle for a place in the life of the community not only against their predecessors but against the opulent German-Jewish community which, at the turn of the century, were unfriendly to the new arrivals although they did support a large number of charitable and educational institutions. Many of the leading personalities of the German-Jewish community achieved notable positions in American political life; some of them intermarried and their families have disappeared from the Jewish community.

It is interesting to note that no Jew was ever elected Mayor of New York and that no Jew has been head of Tammany Hall. On the other hand, Samuel Koenig did become the leader of the Republican party in New York, although it must be admitted that that party had ceased to be very important in this area at that time or since.

The new group to follow the Jews is the Italian which achieved leadership, particularly in the Democratic party in a surprising short time. Italians play politics very differently from the Irish or the Jews. They are not given to forming tight groups that fight for each other. Fiorello La Guardia was a Republican, Socialist, a New Dealer all at the same time. Vito Marcantonio must have been a Republican at one time when he closely followed La Guardia. He became a proponent of Mussolini and then an associate of the communists, if not a party functionary. Neither La Guardia nor Marcantonio represented the emerging Italian community in New York. Perhaps, the first important leader was the late Genesio Pope, publisher of the leading Italian newspaper in the United States, "Il Progresso."

It was not, however, until Carmine De Sapio appeared on the scene that the Italians moved into a primary position. De Sapio emerged in the orthodox political manner, from district leader, to county chairman to national committeeman. In each instance, he took over a position which had traditionally been held by an Irish-Catholic. The change definitely represented a shift in population and a loss of interest in party politics by the older group as it grew richer, more certain of itself and less concerned with the struggle for power.

Incidentally, in New York, the Negroes are emerging forcefully to political leadership. They are not encountering the resistance that really is in the heart of Edwin O'Connor's "The Last Hurrah." They are being catered to by both parties, being given good positions in increasingly large numbers. The president of the borough of Manhattan, Hulan Jack, has reached the highest non-judicial position for a negro,

but the judicial appointments are increasing in number. Hulan Jack is a Democrat.

Edwin O'Connor's novel reminds the reader of this most interesting phenomenon in American history, one which I have personally witnessed from the days of Charley Murphy and Herbert Parsons, to Sam Koenig and Carmine De Sapio. And make no mistake, this kind of local politics has profoundly affected national policy and national administration.

Chills and Fever May Come Together

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Chills and fever frequently go hand in hand.

A chill, or involuntary shivering attack with a sense of coldness and pallor of the skin, generally follows about an hour after a foreign substance is introduced into the blood stream. Such substances may be parasites, bacteria or bacterial products or even vaccines.

Cause of Fever

This chill boosts your body's heat production without much change in the heat loss. When this heat production exceeds heat loss, you've got a fever.

Unless there's a head injury, fever seldom exceeds 106.5 degrees. For persons confined to their beds, any temperature above 98.6 may be considered a fever. For persons who have been recently moderately active, temperatures above 99.0 degrees are fevers. Usually, normal rectal temperatures are from .05 to 1.0 degrees above oral temperatures.

Sometimes Helpful

While fever often is useless and even harmful, sometimes it is believed helpful. Antibody production, we believe, is enhanced by high body temperatures. This high temperature may also help mobilize other mechanisms for defense during infections. Also, the temperature inhibits certain microorganisms such as gonococcus and others.

Extremely high fever, however, can be fatal in itself. Some fevers increase the oxygen and nourishment demands of tissues and cause quite a bit of harm. Prolonged fever weakens a person by increasing metabolism.

Doctor's Advice

While your physician must decide how to combat the fever and other symptoms, he'll probably advise that water be given the patient every hour to compensate for fluid loss. Maybe one to three grams of sodium chloride should be given three times a day if the salt intake is low.

Sponge baths, a sheet bath, an ice water enema or cold head compresses may be advised to help reduce the temperature. Your doctor can also administer any of a number of drugs which will help lower the fever.

If the patient must stay in bed any length of time, you can give him daily soap-and-water baths. Follow these up with an alcohol back rub. Besides keeping him clean, they'll help his morale.

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—It was President Eisenhower himself who said the Republican party is not "dependent" on one man. But it certainly is now. And he's the man.

The reason: with the exception of Vice President Nixon — and there is some talk the Republicans may ditch him as Eisenhower's running mate — the party in the past four years has not built up any potential successor to Eisenhower. The same thing happened to the Democrats in the Franklin D. Roosevelt years.

The Republicans may land on the political rocks in 1960 if Eisenhower wins this year and they do no more in the next four years to push forward presidential prospects than they did in the past four.

Eisenhower looked so much more the winner than any other Republican in sight that the party wanted him even though he starts out under a handicap — his heart attack — no other candidate would have to bear.

Eisenhower and his party can still hope his enormous popularity will carry the day. But they know uncertainty in the public mind about his health may cost them votes and make the result closer than in 1952.

They can't afford a vice presidential candidate who will lose them votes. This year, they know, voters will be thinking more than ever of the old saying: "The vice president is one heartbeat from the presidency."

For that reason the man the Republicans pick as Eisenhower's running mate this year will probably be the man they would have picked as their presidential candidate if Eisenhower wasn't running.

from? A handful of Republicans come to mind: Nixon, Sen. Knowland and California, Thomas E. Dewey, Gov. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts and Henry Cabot Lodge.

Eisenhower has pushed Nixon to the front since 1952. Nixon has wide support among many — but not all — Republican politicians. Eisenhower has declined to say he wants him again. Nixon's future is unclear.

Knowland seems to consider himself presidential timber. He was anxious to run if Eisenhower didn't. He can hardly claim a huge following. He already has said he doesn't want the No. 2 place on Eisenhower's ticket.

Herter has been mentioned. But he's no national figure. There might be a dispute over his nomination for the vice presidency. He was born in Paris and the Constitution says a president must be a natural-born citizen.

Dewey is a two-time loser in the presidential sweepstakes. A big section of Republicans — the Taft wing — has small use for him. If he still has the presidential bug, he's been keeping it quiet.

Lodge, chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations and a long time Eisenhower backer, didn't even win re-election in his own state of Massachusetts last time he ran for the Senate.

Except for Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, who says he doesn't want the job, no one in Eisenhower's Cabinet is being talked of much for the vice presidency.

He also filed it in his heart, and when you asked him for it—well, it was there. Johnny was a long lesson in loyalty. He was strictly an organization man. He didn't get to travel much himself (there was a family to be raised) but he traveled and suffered in spirit with scores of foreign correspondents.

His closest buddy was the late Jim Mills, dean of war reporters in his time, whom Gandhi once said he expected would be waiting to interview him at the gates of heaven. They both have reached the gates since then, but Jim hasn't found a way to get the story through.

When Johnny Crooks, this skinny reservoir of news history, went to pasture last summer there was a big gap left in the office where he had worked for so long.

Johnny wasn't happy either. He cherished the inscribed gold watch (it was what he wanted) and other farewell souvenir gifts for more than half a century of service. He got a pension. He also was free every day to watch tracks where, as a boy, he had dreamed of riding.

But he missed the daily bugle

Times Change --- So Do Politics

Probably the most interesting political novel of this generation is "The Last Hurrah" by Edwin O'Connor. The essential truth of this story that while fashions change and times give the impression of being different, it is only human interests and necessities that really move in new directions. While it is possible to identify the Bostonians of whom Mr. O'Connor writes, it is also possible to duplicate such personalities in other cities, particularly in New York where I would be more familiar with them.

And in both cities, the struggle for position and power was the same and to a degree remains the same except that the nationalities and religions are different. This tale deals with the Irish-Catholic conquest of Boston and ends when the younger generation becomes less cognizant of the reasons for the earlier struggle and drops the old leadership.

In the large northeastern cities, the Irish were usually followed by a large Jewish migration. Up to the time of Hitler, the Jews were rapidly assimilated in the indigenous community, usually taking their places in the political life of both parties. In New York, for instance, up to the time that Al Smith became governor, most of the Jews who entered politics were Republicans and Reformers. This was largely a German-Jewish community under which term must be included Hungarian and Bohemian Jews.

The Russian and Polish Jewish communities came later and had to struggle for a place in the life of the community not only against their predecessors but against the opulent German-Jewish community which, at the turn of the century, were unfriendly to the new arrivals although they did support a large number of charitable and educational institutions. Many of the leading personalities of the German-Jewish community achieved notable positions in American political life: some of them intermarried and their families have disappeared from the Jewish community.

It is interesting to note that no Jew was ever elected Mayor of New York and that no Jew has been head of Tammany Hall. On the other hand, Samuel Koenig did become the leader of the Republican party in New York, although it must be admitted that that party had ceased to be very important in this area at that time or since.

The new group to follow the Jews is the Italian which achieved leadership, particularly in the Democratic party in a surprisingly short time. Italians play politics very differently from the Irish or the Jews. They are not given to forming tight groups that fight for each other. Fiorello La Guardia was a Republican, Socialist, a New Dealer all at the same time. Vito Marcantonio must have been a Republican at one time when he closely followed La Guardia. He became a proponent of Mussolini and then an associate of the communists, if not a party functionary. Neither La Guardia nor Marcantonio represented the emerging Italian community in New York. Perhaps, the first important leader was the late Generoso Pope, publisher of the leading Italian newspaper in the United States, "Il Progresso."

It was not, however, until Carmine De Sapio appeared on the scene that the Italians moved into a primary position. De Sapio emerged in the orthodox political manner, from district leader, to county chairman to national committeeman. In each instance, he took over a position which had traditionally been held by an Irish-Catholic. The change definitely represented a shift in population and a loss of interest in party politics by the older group as it grew richer, more certain of itself and less concerned with the struggle for power.

Incidentally, in New York, the Negroes are emerging forcefully to political leadership. They are not encountering the resistance that really is in the heart of Edwin O'Connor's "The Last Hurrah." They are being catered to by both parties, being given good positions in increasingly large numbers. The president of the borough of Manhattan, Hulan Jack, has reached the highest non-judicial position for a negro,

By Hal Boyle

of duty, the active feeling of belonging.

After nine endless, restless weeks, Johnny heard of a part-time stenographic job in a Wall Street law firm, applied for it and got it.

He found age no handicap in adjusting to a new job technique. He is bouyant again, happy in new loyalties. The name of the firm that gave him this post-retirement break (Johnny says if I mention it please make him a partner) is Flood, Conway, Walsh, Stahl — and Johnny Crooks.

Johnny, chirpy as a cricket now, says idleness is a curse to a longtime working man. He advocates a new start.

"It's a mistake for an employer to look at a man's gray hair and refuse him a job," he said. "Gray matter goes with gray hair and it's always worth hiring."

"It is work that keeps a man young. It is wonderful to learn new things. I've made a lot of new friends. I'm happier now than I've been in many a year."

Johnny, who has more bounce to the ounce at 66 than many a man half his age, gives this as his personal recipe for keeping pep:

"Don't dissipate. Don't overeat. Do everything in moderation."

By George Sokolsky

but the judicial appointments are increasing in number. Hulan Jack is a Democrat.

Edwin O'Connor's novel reminds the reader of this most interesting phenomenon in American history, one which I have personally witnessed from the days of Charley Murphy and Herbert Parsons, to Sam Koenig and Carmine De Sapio. And make no mistake, this kind of local politics has profoundly affected national policy and national administration.

Chills and Fever May Come Together

Chills and fever frequently go hand in hand.

A chill, or involuntary shivering attack with a sense of coldness and pallor of the skin, generally follows about an hour after a foreign substance is introduced into the blood stream. Such substances may be parasites, bacteria or bacterial products or even vaccines.

Cause of Fever

Unless there's a head injury, fever seldom exceeds 106.5 degrees. For persons confined to their beds, any temperature above 98.6 may be considered a fever. For persons who have been recently moderately active, temperatures above 99.0 degrees are fevers. Usually, normal rectal temperatures are from .05 to 1.0 degrees above oral temperatures.

Sometimes Helpful

While fever often is useless and even harmful, sometimes it is believed helpful. Antibody production, we believe, is enhanced by high body temperatures. This high temperature may also help mobilize other mechanisms for defense during infections. Also, the temperature inhibits certain microorganisms such as gonococcus and others.

Extremely high fever, however, can be fatal in itself. Some fevers increase the oxygen and nourishment demands of tissues and cause quite a bit of harm. Prolonged fever weakens a person by increasing metabolism.

Doctor's Advice

While your physician must decide how to combat the fever and other symptoms, he'll probably advise that water be given the patient every hour to compensate for fluid loss. Maybe one to three grams of sodium chloride should be given three times a day if the salt intake is low.

Sponge baths, a sheet bath, an ice water enema or cold head compresses may be advised to help reduce the temperature. Your doctor can also administer any of a number of drugs which will help lower the fever.

If the patient must stay in bed any length of time, you can give him daily soap-and-water baths. Follow these up with an alcohol back rub. Besides keeping him clean, they'll help his morale.

The Nation Today

James Marlow

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—It was President Eisenhower himself who said the Republican party is not "dependent" on one man. But it certainly is now. And he's the man.

The reason: with the exception of Vice President Nixon — and there is some talk the Republicans may ditch him as Eisenhower's running mate — the party in the past four years has not built up any potential successor to Eisenhower. The same thing happened to the Democrats in the Franklin D. Roosevelt years.

The Republicans may land on the political rocks in 1960 if Eisenhower wins this year and they do no more in the next four years to push forward presidential prospects than they did in the past four.

Eisenhower looked so much more the winner than any other Republican in sight that the party wanted him even though he starts out under a handicap — his heart attack — no other candidate would have to bear.

Eisenhower and his party can still hope his enormous popularity will carry the day. But they know uncertainty in the public mind about his health may cost them votes and make the result closer than in 1952.

They can't afford a vice presidential candidate who will lose them votes. This year, they know, voters will be thinking more than ever of the old saying: "The vice president is one heartbeat from the presidency."

For that reason the man the Republicans pick as Eisenhower's running mate this year will probably be the man they would have picked as their presidential candidate if Eisenhower wasn't running.

Woman, 72, Stays 39 Hours In Tub

BOSTON (AP)—Mrs. Stella Crowley, 72, today was found to have suffered no ill effects after spending 39 hours in a bath tub.

She became ill while bathing Friday night and was in the tub until Sunday when her daughter, Mrs. Mary Hawkins, found the doors locked on her usual Sunday visit.

The daughter called firefighters, who entered the house and helped the elderly woman into bed.

the front since 1952. Nixon has wide support among many — but not all—Republican politicians. Eisenhower himself declined to say he wants him again. Nixon's future is unclear.

Knowland seems to consider himself presidential timber. He was anxious to run if Eisenhower didn't. He can hardly claim a huge following. He already has said he doesn't want the No. 2 place on Eisenhower's ticket.

Herter has been mentioned. But he's no national figure. There might be a dispute over his nomination for the vice presidency. He was born in Paris and the Constitution says a president must be a natural-born citizen.

Dewey is a two-time loser in the presidential sweepstakes. A big section of Republicans — the Taft wing — has small use for him. If he still has the presidential bug, he's been keeping it quiet.

Lodge, chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations and a long-time Eisenhower backer, didn't even win re-election in his own state of Massachusetts the last time he ran for the Senate.

Except for Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, who says he doesn't want the job, no one in Eisenhower's Cabinet is being talked of much for the vice presidency.

Class Members Hold Meeting

Members of the Friendship class of the South Side Church of Christ assembled at the church for a covered dish dinner preceding the regular meeting.

A lengthy business session followed the delicious meal and was presided over by the president, Mr. Thomas Riley.

The opening prayer by Rev. David Meyer was followed with the usual reports and discussions on various projects resulting in plans to purchase needed equipment for the church.

Due to the absence of the vice president, Mr. Kenneth Thomas, Rev. Meyer led in the devotion and also in a discussion on the subject, "What Inspired Us To Become Christians".

A circle of prayer closed the worship period and the members enjoyed visiting.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Malcolm Jette, Mrs. Thomas Riley, and Mrs. Weldon Fountain.

The next meeting will be in charge of the men.

Good dessert: bake an angelfood cake, using a packaged mix. Slice and serve with a standard lemon pudding and dollops of whipped cream. Membrane-free sections of orange, added to the lemon sauce, will make the dessert extra good.

Home Wedding Unites Couple In Marriage

An informal home wedding beautiful in its simplicity was solemnized at four o'clock in the afternoon, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Rummans on the Staunton-Jasper Road, when their daughter, Shirley Joyce, became the bride of Mr. Harold Vernon Lloyd of Dayton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lloyd, of Brookville.

Rev. Clinton W. Swengel officiated at the single ring service, before the mantel in the living room banked with arrangements of pink snapdragons and huckleberry foliage, softly lighted with white candles in tall six branch candelabra.

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a petal pink street length dress of polished cotton, fashioned with brief sleeves, low round neck, and full skirt.

A hat with a short veil and short gloves, were the white accessories and she carried a wedding bouquet of white roses.

Mrs. Roderick Rummans, a sister-in-law was the matron of honor and only attendant and she chose an ice blue dress with accessories of a deeper shade of blue and her corsage was pink carnations.

Mr. Clarence Lloyd, father of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Mrs. Rummans chose for her daughter's wedding a navy sheer dress with matching accessories and her corsage was yellow roses. Mrs. Lloyd was wearing a navy blue crepe dress with navy accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception for the wedding party and thirty guests was held at the home.

The bride's table in the dining room was centered with a tiered wedding cake topped with the traditional bride and groom, over which a large white wedding bell was suspended.

Hostesses were Mrs. Harry Cunningham who served the cake, Mrs. Howard Gordon who presided over the punch bowl and Mrs. Charles

Hard who served the ice cream. The bride was graduated from Washington C. H. High School in the class of 1954 and the bridegroom, a graduate of a Dayton High School in the class of 1950 is employed by the Mid-State Trucking Company in Dayton, where the couple will reside at 1102 North Main Street.

For going away the bride chose a rose colored polished cotton dress with black accessories and the corsage from her wedding bouquet.

Mrs. McCoppin Is Honored At Birthday Dinner

Mrs. Frank McCoppin was pleasantly surprised on Sunday when a group of relatives assembled at her home to celebrate her birthday anniversary.

Mrs. McCoppin's mother, Mrs. A. F. Puckett and a sister-in-law Mrs. Chester Puckett, assisted Mrs. McCoppin in the arrangements and the guests brought well filled baskets for a delicious covered dish dinner at the noon hour.

During the afternoon, the group enjoyed visiting and Mrs. McCoppin was presented with many lovely gifts.

Those participating in the lovely event were: Mr. A. F. Puckett, Mr. Kenneth Whiting, Paul, Dean and Elza Boldman, Miss Peggy Borden of Hillsboro, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gustin, children Virginia, Ruth and Bobby of Owensville, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Whiting, children Geraldine and Charles of Springfield, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Puckett, sons Clifford and David, of this city, Mr. and Mrs. Harley McCoppin of New Martinsburg, Philip, Freddie, Rebecca and Christine McCoppin, children of the Frank McCoppins.

Mrs. Palmer Is Hostess To WSCS Members

The March meeting of the Staunton WSCS was held at the home of Mrs. Donald Palmer.

Mrs. J. O. Wilson led in the devotions which included a song, Scripture reading from Mark, an article from the Upper Room and prayer led by Miss Blanche Roberts.

Mrs. Robert Haines, president, conducted the business session during which seventeen members responded to roll call and the usual reports were heard and approved.

It was reported that $144 had been cleared from the serving of lunch at the Denton Implement sale held recently, and activities of the society for the past month reported were 64 cards sent, 45 calls made, 18 donations and two flowers.

The program in charge of Miss Ethel Hidy, consisted of a contest on "Old Sayings," and the following readings: "Behold Your King," by Mrs. Clarence DeWeese; "To Christian Heroes," by Mrs. Robert Haines; "March Weather," by Mrs. Albert Backenstoe; "To My Birth Month," by Mrs. Foster Wikle; "Widow Wise and Her Pullet," by Mrs. Gene Clay; "March," by Miss Blanche Roberts; "The Wondrous Story," by Mrs. W. A. Grim; "Mad March Winds," by Mrs. Donald Palmer; "March," by Mrs. Harold Wilson; "O'Cuill," by Mrs. Ora Marshall; and a vocal duet "Whispering Hope," by Mrs. Donald Palmer and Mrs. Gene Clay.

During the social hour, the hostess assisted by Mrs. Harold Wilson and Mrs. Gene Clay, served a desert course.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hidy, sons Lowell, Wayne and Philip, of near Madison Mills, were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Thelma Lehman at her home in Fairborn. The occasion honored the 27th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Hidy.

Mrs. Richard Klaes and son Dale of Shelby, were weekend guests of Mrs. Klaes' mother, Mrs. Beryl Cavinee.

Mr. and Mrs. Horatio Wilson have returned from Charleston, West Virginia, where they attended the Dog Show held at the Tag Gaylean Show Rooms in Charleston, over the weekend.

Dr's. A. D. and R. D. Woodmansee returned Saturday from Chicago, where they attended the twelfth annual Clinical Conference of the Chicago Medical Society in session the past week.

Dr. and Mrs. N. M. Reiff and Mr. Thomas Mansell motored to Delaware, Saturday, to attend the Ohio Wesleyan University production of the play "Everyman" presented by Theta Alpha Phi, a dramatic fraternity Saturday evening in the Williams Street Methodist Church, in Delaware. The Reiffs' daughter, Miss Sally and Miss Portia Brownell, were members of the cast.

Mrs. Faith Pearce spent the weekend in Dayton where she was the guest of relatives.

Mrs. Helen Dunton, Mrs. Paul Mohr, Mrs. Thomas Christopher, Mrs. L. M. Hayes, Mrs. Frank Mayo and Mrs. Willard Huron, motored to Greenville Friday to be guests of Mrs. J. C. Patty, at a card party and mock ceremony given by the Treaty City Shrine in Greenville. Saturday morning they motored to Springfield, where they attended a bi-annual luncheon meeting of the Ohio State White Shrine Association held at the Masonic Temple. They returned home Saturday evening.

Class Members Hold Meeting

Members of the Friendship class of the South Side Church of Christ assembled at the church for a covered dish dinner preceding the regular meeting.

A lengthy business session followed the delicious meal and was presided over by the president, Mr. Thomas Riley.

The opening prayer by Rev. David Meyer was followed with the usual reports and discussions on various projects resulting in plans to purchase needed equipment for the church.

Due to the absence of the vice president, Mr. Kenneth Thomas, Rev. Meyer led in the devotion and also in a discussion on the subject, "What Inspired Us To Become Christians".

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Malcolm Jette, Mrs. Thomas Riley, and Mrs. Weldon Fountain.

The next meeting will be in charge of the men.

Good dessert: bake an angelfood cake, using a packaged mix. Slice and serve with a standard lemon pudding and dollops of whipped cream. Membrane-free sections of orange, added to the lemon sauce, will make the dessert extra good.

Home Wedding Unites Couple In Marriage

An informal home wedding beautiful in its simplicity was solemnized at four o'clock in the afternoon, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Rummans on the Staunton-Jasper Road, when their daughter, Shirley Joyce, became the bride of Mr. Harold Vernon Lloyd of Dayton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lloyd, of Brookville.

Rev. Clinton W. Swengel officiated at the single ring service, before the mantel in the living room banked with arrangements of pink snapdragons and huckleberry foliage, softly lighted with white candles in tall six branch candelabra.

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a petal pink street length dress of polished cotton, fashioned with brief sleeves, low round neck, and full skirt.

A hat with a short veil and short gloves, were the white accessories and she carried a wedding bouquet of white roses.

Mrs. Roderick Rummans, a sister-in-law was the matron of honor and only attendant and she chose an ice blue dress with accessories of a deeper shade of blue and her corsage was pink carnations.

Mr. Clarence Lloyd, father of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Mrs. Rummans chose for her daughter's wedding a navy sheer dress with matching accessories and her corsage was yellow roses. Mrs. Lloyd was wearing a navy blue crepe dress with navy accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception for the wedding party and thirty guests was held at the home.

Hostesses were Mrs. Harry Cunningham who served the cake, Mrs. Howard Gordon who presided over the punch bowl and Mrs. Charles

Hard who served the ice cream. The bride was graduated from Washington C. H. High School in the class of 1954 and the bridegroom, a graduate of a Dayton High School in the class of 1950 is employed by the Mid-State Trucking Company in Dayton, where the couple will reside at 1102 North Main Street.

For going away the bride chose a rose colored polished cotton dress with black accessories and the corsage from her wedding bouquet.

Mrs. McCoppin Is Honored At Birthday Dinner

Mrs. Frank McCoppin was pleasantly surprised on Sunday when a group of relatives assembled at her home to celebrate her birthday anniversary.

Mrs. McCoppin's mother, Mrs. A. F. Puckett and a sister-in-law Mrs. Chester Puckett, assisted Mr. McCoppin in the arrangements and the guests brought well filled baskets for a delicious covered dish dinner at the noon hour.

During the afternoon, the group enjoyed visiting and Mrs. McCoppin was presented with many lovely gifts.

Those participating in the lovely event were: Mr. A. F. Puckett, Mr. Kenneth Whiting, Paul, Dean and Elza Boldman, Miss Peggy Borden of Hillsboro, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gustin, children Virginia, Ruth and Bobby of Owensville, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Whiting, children Geraldine and Charles of Springfield, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Puckett, sons Clifford and David, of this city, Mr. and Mrs. Harley McCoppin of New Martinsburg, Philip, Freddie, Rebecca and Christine McCoppin, children of the Frank McCoppins.

Mrs. Palmer Is Hostess To WSCS Members

The March meeting of the Staunton WSCS was held at the home of Mrs. Donald Palmer.

Mrs. J. O. Wilson led in the devotions which included a song, Scripture reading from Mark, an article from the Upper Room and prayer led by Miss Blanche Roberts.

Mrs. Robert Haines, president, conducted the business session during which seventeen members responded to roll call and the usual reports were heard and approved.

It was reported that $144 had been cleared from the serving of lunch at the Denton Implement sale held recently, and activities of the society for the past month reported were 64 cards sent, 45 calls made, 18 donations and two flowers.

The program in charge of Miss Ethel Hidy, consisted of a contest on "Old Sayings," and the following readings: "Behold Your King," by Mrs. Clarence DeWeese; "To Christian Heroes," by Mrs. Robert Haines; "March Weather," by Mrs. Albert Backenstoe; "To My Birth Month," by Mrs. Foster Wikle; "Widow Wise and Her Puppets," by Mrs. Gene Clay; "March," by Miss Blanche Roberts; "The Wondrous Story," by Mrs. W. A. Grim; "Mad March Winds," by Mrs. Donald Palmer; "March," by Mrs. Harold Wilson; "O'Cuil," by Mrs. Ora Marshall; and a vocal duet "Whispering Hope," by Mrs. Donald Palmer and Mrs. Gene Clay.

During the social hour, the hostess assisted by Mrs. Harold Wilson and Mrs. Gene Clay, served a dessert course.

Thugs Outsmart Watching Officer

CHICAGO (AP)—A policeman detailed at a gasoline station to catch gunmen who have staged a series of gas station robberies recently, was robbed and bound with tape by two gunmen. They also took his gun and watch.

The attendant in the station and three taxicab drivers also were robbed and bound by the gunmen.

The five were sitting in the station when the robbers, both well dressed, entered and drew guns.

They fled with a total of $170, including $18 taken from Policeman Walter Binder, 45.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Can you tell me what is the matter with me, and how to overcome it? I have been married seven years to Mike, who has never, in word or action, showed anything but complete love for me.

In the last month he has taken a very good job very far from here — a wonderful opportunity; something we've been working towards for a long time. I am to join him in six months; and meantime will see him once in that period. As soon as Mike left, I began thinking maybe I never would hear from him again. I felt completely despondent and unloved. In two days I received a card mailed en route; then a long letter upon his arrival; and two more long, detailed loving letters within a week. And, on our anniversary, a telegram sending love.

Mike is embarking upon new, time-consuming, arduous work; yet, because I haven't had a letter this past week, I am completely despondent. I can just force myself through my work; and I am miserably unhappy and unable to enjoy anything. I have kept myself from telephoning him only by extreme self-control.

Many other times since we've been married I've had this horrible feeling. Once when we were separated for three days — and sometimes when he is right with

Terrific Omelet Found In Grocery

LAWRENCEBURG, Ind. (AP) — Vendors mixed up a terrific omelet at the Siebenthal grocery and meat market in nearby Harrison.

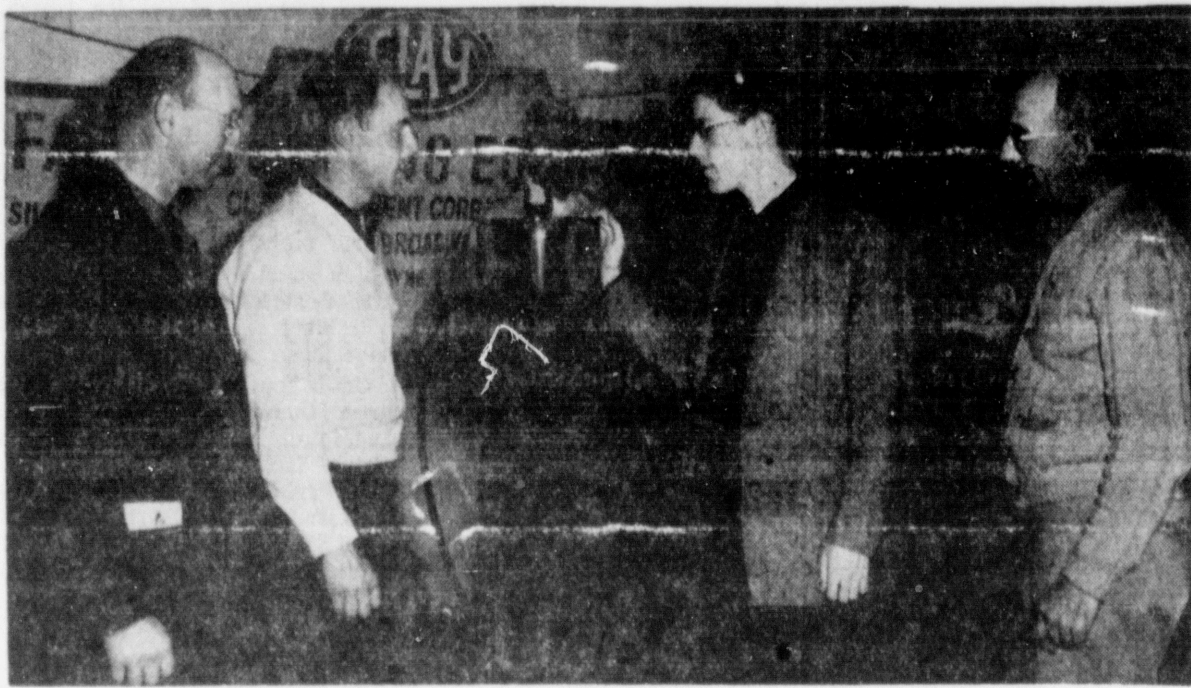

Somebody broke into the store and dumped out four dozen eggs, a dozen sacks of flour and quantities of sugar and salt. Then they dragged several pork loins, hams and bacon slabs through the mixture and finished by dumping four dozen chickens into it.

State police said they never had seen a worse mess.

Flemming Prepares For War While Active In His Church

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arthur Sherwood Flemming devotes much of what spare time he has to church activities. On the job, he prepares for an atomic war—hoping it won't come.

As ODM director Flemming is a key man in preparing the nation's defenses.

It's his job to see that American industry, men and materials are ready for sudden, all-out war.

He is concerned with spending billions. He sits in on cabinet meetings. He is briefed at National Security Council meetings on the secrets of Russian preparations.

Flemming attacks all of these grim matters with enthusiasm. At the same time he is an active Methodist and a top man in the National Council of Churches of Christ.

But the 50-year-old defense mobilization sees no inconsistency in the two interests. To the contrary, he feels they are complementary.

Like it or not, we're going to be in a cold war with Russia for 40, maybe 50 years. This probably will mean the current, record peacetime war implement spending of 35½ billion annually will go on for all that time.

It also will mean high taxes, constant world tension, and, to borrow a phrase from President

Eisenhower, "an age of peril."

All this is absolutely necessary to "deter" Russia from attacking us. We have no alternative.

On the other hand—and these still are Flemming's views—there always remains the possibility that "spiritual forces" may filter behind the Iron Curtain and develop into a strong influence for peace.

This, then, is where religion comes in. As an example, Flemming said he understands the Baptist Church has made progress in Communist bloc countries.

It is these "spiritual forces," including American deeds abroad to help other countries, that could end the cold war.

Flemming doesn't know how much longer he will remain as ODM director, but says he is sure he'll return to Ohio Wesleyan.

Beyond that, he says, he just can't say. But getting back to the beginning of his argument, he will predict that even after many of us have grown old or are gone, there still will be somebody holding the job he now occupies as director of the Office of Defense Mobilization.

Thief Helps Cops Capture Burglar

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — It took a thief to catch a burglar.

Edward Ayler Cox, 44, pleaded guilty to burglary and was sentenced to two years in prison.

A petty thief had ransacked Cox's hotel room, and was arrested. On him detectives found some money missing from a recent $429 safe-cracking job.

Confronted with the money, Cox confessed.

Your School Report Card

By W. A. SMITH
(City School Superintendent)

A Social Training Program is being sponsored by the Student Council of Washington High School.

Members of the Mothers' Circle will serve as chaperones and two separate sessions will be held each Monday night. The first, for Junior High students, will begin at 7:45 P. M. and end at 8:45 P. M.

The second session, for Senior High students will last from 8:45 to 9:45 P. M.

The program will be conducted by Mr. Jack Sherrick and Mr. Chet Lafferty, who have successfully conducted similar training programs in many of the central Ohio schools.

A fee of five dollars is being charged for the entire course of ten lessons. The classes will be held in the high school gymnasium and begin tonight, March 5.

Parents are cordially invited to attend the training program. This is an attempt to promote the social training of the young people at a time when they have the most need for it.

When porpoises swim near ships, old-time sailors regarded it as an omen of fair winds.

Network Uses Ordinary Folk To Evaluate New Programs

NEW YORK (AP) — When broadcasting and telecasting experts aren't sure whether a program is "right" for the audience, who makes the decision?

Take, as an example a new filmed comedy series, "Joe and Mabel," which CBS-TV will launch soon. Somebody in the upper echelons wondered how the public would like the series and whether any changes should be made in it. So it was turned over to program analysis.

In small groups the testers were seated about a table, provided with cigarettes and candy, and given two electric push buttons—one for each hand. Then a "Joe and Mabel" film came on the screen.

As long as the testers liked what they saw they were instructed to press the green button; when they disliked anything, they were to press the red button, when indifferent, they pressed neither. Their impressions were recorded on tape in an adjoining room.

Next the testers answered written questionnaires about the show. Finally they were questioned individually. When all the statistics had been compiled, Hallonquist reported that the show was "above average in interest."

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Can you tell me what is the matter with me, and how to overcome it? I have been married seven years to Mike, who has never, in word or action, showed anything but complete love for me.

In the last month he has taken a very good job very far from here — a wonderful opportunity; something we've been working towards for a long time. I am to join him in six months; and meantime will see him once in that period.

As soon as Mike left, I began thinking maybe I never would hear from him again. I felt completely despondent and unloved. In two days I received a card mailed en route; then a long letter upon his arrival; then a more long, detailed loving letter within a week. And, on our anniversary, a telegram sending love.

Mike is embarking upon new, time-consuming, arduous work; yet, because I haven't had a letter this past week, I am completely despondent. I can just force myself through my work; and I am miserably unhappy and unable to enjoy anything. I have kept myself from telephoning him only by extreme self-control.

Many other times since we've been married I've had this horrible feeling. Once when we were separated for three days — and sometimes when he is right with

Flemming Prepares For War While Active In His Church

WASHINGTON (P) — Arthur Sherwood Flemming devotes much of what spare time he has to church activities. On the job, he prepares for an atomic war—hoping it won't come.

As ODM director Flemming is a key man in preparing the nation's defenses.

It's his job to see that American industry, men and materials are ready for sudden, all-out war. He is concerned with spending billions. He sits in on cabinet meetings. He is briefed at National Security Council meetings on the secrets of Russian preparations.

Flemming attacks all of these grim matters with enthusiasm. At the same time he is an active Methodist and a top man in the National Council of Churches of Christ.

But the 50-year-old defense mobilizer sees no inconsistency in the two interests. To the contrary, he feels they are complementary.

This, in paraphrase, is what he told his interviewer:

Like it or not, we're going to be in a cold war with Russia for 40, maybe 50 years. This probably will mean the current, record peacetime war implement spending of 35½ billion annually will go on for all that time.

It also will mean high taxes, constant world tension, and, to borrow a phrase from President

(City School Superintendent)

A Social Training Program is being sponsored by the Student Council of Washington High School.

To be conducted each Monday evening for the next ten weeks (except during Holy Week), the program is designed to teach students how to dance and how to conduct themselves at the dance (social behavior).

Members of the Mothers' Circle will serve as chaperones and two separate sessions will be held each Monday night. The first, for Junior High students, will begin at 7:45 P. M. and end at 8:45 P. M.

The second session, for Senior High students will last from 8:45 to 9:45 P. M.

The program will be conducted by Mr. Jack Sherrick and Mr. Chet Lafferty, who have successfully conducted similar training programs in many of the central Ohio schools.

A fee of five dollars is being charged for the entire course of ten lessons. The classes will be held in the high school gymnasium and begin tonight, March 5.

Parents are cordially invited to attend the training program.

This is an attempt to promote the social training of the young people at a time when they have the most need for it.

Network Uses Ordinary Folk To Evaluate New Programs

NEW YORK (P) — When broadcasting and telecasting experts aren't sure whether a program is "right" for the audience, who makes the decision?

At CBS, interesting to learn, they've been putting it up to ordinary people for a good many years.

This effort is guided by a large and friendly psychologist named Tore Hallonquist who bears the large and impressive title of chief of the Program Analysis Division Research Department.

Take, as an example a new filmed comedy series, "Joe and Mabel," which CBS-TV will launch soon. Somebody in the upper echelons wondered how the public would like the series and whether any changes should be made in it. So it was turned over to program analysis.

Many years ago Hallonquist and his staff used to search the country for a "cross-section" of opinion. Today they find that a representative cross-section of the viewing public attends live telecasts in New York.

From the lines of those waiting to attend CBS shows in New York Hallonquist's assistants picked 100 people in groups of 10 to 20 over a period of many days.

In small groups the testers were seated about a table, provided with cigarettes and candy, and given two electric push buttons—one for each hand. Then a "Joe and Mabel" film came on the screen.

As long as the testers liked what they saw they were instructed to press the green button; when they disliked anything, they were to press the red button, when indifferent, they pressed neither. Their impressions were recorded on tape in an adjoining room.

Next the testers answered written questionnaires about the show. Finally they were questioned individually. When all the statistics had been compiled, Hallonquist reported that the show was "above average in interest."

County to Honor 4-H Club Members and Work This Week

National 4-H Week Marks 42 Years of Work

Fayette County youngsters and parents will be 4-H conscious this week.

It's National 4-H Week, the time to honor the approximately 850 Fayette County boys and girls taking part in 4-H Club program and the adults who help them along.

Last year, there were 570 girls and 264 boys active in 4-H clubs throughout the county. Most of them, 272 girls and 226 boys, came from farm homes. A few, 30 girls and eight boys, lived in rural areas but not on farms. The rest, 268 girls and 30 boys, lived in Washington C. H.

Started back in 1914 along with the Extension Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the national 4-H organization has been increasing in activity and numbers ever since.

Here in Fayette County the number of youngsters taking part in 4-H have grown along with the national increase.

Back in 1952, there were 586 taking part in this county. Last year there were 834. This year the Extension Service expects 850 to 900 members.

Of the 59 clubs active last year, ten were new. This year W. W. Montgomery, County Agent, expects over 60 by the time enrollment is completed April 1.

BEHIND the clubs is the 4-H council, a group of 13 club advisors who plan the activities for the year.

Right now Associate Agent Philip Grover is visiting schools, showing films on 4-H work, answering questions and explaining the details to potential 4-H members, or advisors and parents.

Montgomery pointed out that, while the Extension Service does the work of organization and getting the clubs together, it is the advisors who do most of the work. They pretty much run their own show, with advice from the Extension office.

THE OTHER is the Junior Fair, the annual event that draws virtually every 4-H member and almost as high a percentage of Fayette County residents regardless of whether they are farmers or city dwellers or even parents.

The 4-H club motto expresses the general aim of the organization: "To Make the Best Better."

Other slogans used by the club point out other aspects: such as "Working Together for World Understanding," "Improving Family and Community Living," "Learn to Do by Doing," "To Beat My Own Best Record," "To Win Without Bragging and to Lose Without Squealing," "Plan our Work and Work our Plan."

What does the phrase, 4-H, stand for? That's answered in the 4-H members pledge:

"I pledge
My Head to clearer thinking,
My Heart to greater loyalty,
My Hands to larger service and
My Health to better living, for My Club, my Community and my Country."

Drop In Sales Tax In Many Counties

Four counties in this area of seven showed drops in receipts of sales tax during the week ending February 13, as shown by the weekly summary issued by Roger W. Tracy, treasurer of state.

The counties were Fayette, Highland, Ross and Pickaway.

In the state at large a gain of $182,557 was recorded, as compared with the same week in 1955.

Fayette County's total was $4,713.41 and a year ago the amount was $5,553.45.

Marriages OK'd For High Schoolers

OSAGE, Iowa — The Osage school board has dropped a ban against "high school marriages."

A recent ruling of the Iowa attorney general's office held that the board has no power to bar a student merely because he or she is married.

The ban was imposed originally when the board discovered that one high school girl already was married, her sister was engaged, and a third girl was contemplating an early marriage.

The attorney general's office held the ban was "unreasonable and therefore unenforceable."

Two Drunk Drivers Are Arrested Here

Two of the three arrests made here over the week end were for driving while drunk.

Charles Marion Chaney, 64, city, was picked up by the police and listed for the offense and James Clark Conard, 21, of near Sabina, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Don Thompson on the Jamison Road, and a driving while drunk charge placed against him.

The third man arrested was Everett Clinton Fitch, city, for driving 50 miles an hour on Delaware Street.

Montgomery pointed out that, while the Extension Service does the work of organization and getting the clubs together, it is the advisors who do most of the work. They pretty much run their own show, with advice from the Extension office.

Members of the clubs receive definite training in giving demonstrations, group leadership, music appreciation, farm and home safety, citizenship, personality improvement, health, nursing and first aid, baking, canning, freezing, judging, home furnishings, child care, crop production and tractor maintenance.

There are a couple of high spots of 4-H club work during the year. One is the 4-H camp, Camp Clifton, during the summer. Over 200 from here attended last year.

THE OTHER is the Junior Fair, the annual event that draws virtually every 4-H member and almost as high a percentage of Fayette County residents regardless of whether they are farmers or city dwellers or even parents.

The 4-H club motto expresses the general aim of the organization: "To Make The Best Better."

Other slogans used by the club point out other aspects: such as "Working Together for World Understanding," "Improving Family and Community Living," "Learn to Do by Doing," "To Beat My Own Best Record," "To Win Without Bragging and to Lose Without Squealing," "Plan our Work and Work our Plan."

What does the phrase, 4-H, stand for? That's answered in the 4-H members pledge:

"I pledge
My Head to clearer thinking,
My Heart to greater loyalty,
My Hands to larger service and
My Health to better living, for My Club, my Community and my Country."

Marriages OK'd For High Schoolers

OSAGE, Iowa (AP) — The Osage school board has dropped a ban against "high school marriages."

A recent ruling of the Iowa attorney general's office held that the board has no power to bar a student merely because he or she is married.

The ban was imposed originally when the board discovered that one high school girl already was married, her sister was engaged, and a third girl was contemplating an early marriage.

Two Drunk Drivers Are Arrested Here

Two of the three arrests made here over the week end were for driving while drunk.

Charles Marion Chaney, 64, city, was picked up by the police and listed for the offense and James Clark Conard, 21, of near Sabina, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Don Thompson on the Jamison Road, and a driving while drunk charge placed against him.

District Sales Manager At Factory Meeting

Roger Hoffman, 721 Yeoman Street, district sales manager for the Moorman Manufacturing Co., spent Thursday and Friday at the company's headquarters at Quincy, Ill.

He and 30 other newer Moorman sales managers from 12 states were shown the company's laboratories, its 515-acre research farm and 7-acre factory.

CONGRATULATIONS 4-H'ERS!

We salute the millions of 4-H boys and girls who are taking important strides toward finer citizenship.

The Observance of National 4-H Club Week, March 3 to 11 is an opportunity to salute the more than two million 4-H boys and girls who are taking important strides toward finer citizenship. Whether it be learning better care and operation of farm equipment or mastering a home making skill, 4-H members acquire initiative, responsibility and leadership. We commend them for their dedication to the fourfold developments of head, heart, hands and health through the 4-H program.

Drop In Sales Tax In Many Counties

The counties were Fayette, Highland, Ross and Pickaway.

In the state at large a gain of $182,557 was recorded, as compared with the same week in 1955.

Fayette County's total was $4,713.41 and a year ago the amount was $5,553.45.

Secrets of Bible Uncovered And Scriptures Given Support

It was down this staircase that women of the Old Testament went to draw water. This is, so far, the largest ancient work of engineering uncovered by archaeologists in Palestine.

By LEE HANCOCK
(Central Press Association)

IN THE LANDS of the East which were the cradle of the Bible, dedicated men and women work steadily today to uncover more of the secrets of that ancient Book.

Since excavations began in 1824, nothing has been found which lessens the stature of the Bible as a religious document. However, much has been discovered which substantiates the Bible and clarifies it for its readers.

There is, for example, in John 5:2, a paragraph, "Now there is at Jerusalem by the sheep market a pool, which is called in the Hebrew tongue Bethesda, having five porches."

This, if you remember your Bible, is the place where Jesus cured the paralytic. In recent years the pool has been discovered.

A rectangular pool with galleries around all four sides and a fifth division across the center, the pool is divided into two basins with five porches. Inscribed on stones is a design for a game like hopscotch.

TWO AND A half miles northeast of Jerusalem, the site of Jeremiah's city has been established. Solomon in all his glory comes to life with the discovery of his chariot stables, housing 500 horses.

Here also was found the rock-cut water system used by Solomon, and a hoard of 400 ivory objects plus a cache of gold and electrum bowls and jars.

In the Kingdom of Jordan was found evidence of the "Pittsburgh" of Solomon's time, with iron and copper smelters, refinery, port, furnace rooms and miners' huts.

In Palestine, the staircase down which the women of the Old Testament went to draw water has been covered.

Herod's palace has been found, the largest ancient palace area in Palestine. Dating from the time of Jesus, it was built of sandstone plastered over and painted black and gold. Portions of the paint remain.

THE MOST abundant of the archaeological findings have been thousands of clay tablets. Yale university has the largest collection in America and the University Museum of Philadelphia also has hundreds of them.

The tablets, the chief writing material of ancient times, are imprinted with cuneiform writing done with a wedge-shaped stylus.

They are restored by being baked in an electrical oven at a high temperature until hard enough to permit foreign matter to be picked off under a microscope with a needle.

The fragments of clay tablets are broken pieces of pottery, with which the scientists work, and are known to them as "ostraca."

OSTRACA were used for business, personal, and military records, in addition to recording religious writings and for ballots. Incidentally, it is from the word ostraca that we derive our own word "ostracize." In ancient Athens the way to ostracize, or throw out of office, an unpopular politician, was to cast ostraca against him in the elections.

It takes more than the knowhow of the archaeologists properly to interpret the treasures they unearth. The combined talents of engineers, philologists, chemists, ceramists, photographers and geographers are brought to play.

Many of the materials they unearth are sent to the Institute of Nuclear Studies at the University of Chicago, to be studied by the new radio-carbon method of dating materials by measuring the amount of carbon 14 they contain.

Tree Climbing Kind
Facing Extinction

By ARTHUR SCHOLLES
(Central Press Association)

SYDNEY, Australia — North Queensland jungle timbers are being murdered so wantonly that naturalists fear that the existence of the wild life is threatened.

The rain forest country of North Queensland is the haunt of a unique marsupial—the tree-climbing kangaroo. Hundreds of acres of these rain forests have been cleared in the last few years near Cairns, North Queensland. The land has been put into sugar production.

Thousands of acres further south have yielded to the demand for cabinet and plywood timbers for the fast-growing national economy. All this land is the natural habitat of the two species of treeroos.

Early colonists who filled their letters to the folk back in the Old Country with accounts of such wonders as the duck-billed platypus, native cherries with "the stone outside," and trees which shed their bark instead of their leaves, of the Holy Land is a long, slow task. The site which covers the tombs of the Kings of Judah is unexcavated because of the fanaticism of the present owners of the land, who refuse to permit scientific exploration.

Nineveh, the last capital of the Assyrian empire, and mentioned frequently in the Bible, also poses special problems to the excavators. Some of the most fruitful areas are covered by modern cities, and by cemeteries which may not be disturbed.

However, in spite of the arduous nature of the work and the obstacles which impede their progress, the work goes on. And because of it, the Bible, long recognized as the world's greatest piece of religious writing, is also attaining greater stature as an authentic historical document.

The beautiful long-tailed marsupials were not discovered until the 1880s. Even today they are relatively few in number.

THE LUMHOLT tree-roo, called Boongarry by the aborigines, is the most attractive. He has a coat of thick, soft fur, of a grizzled gray, above, and yellowish on the under-surface, and with black face, chin and toes.

His smaller cousin, whose haunts are farther north, chiefly in the Daintree river and Bloomfield river districts, has fur of a duller hue. He is sometimes called the dusky tree-kangaroo.

Though quite at home among lofty branches, tree-roos spend much of their time on the ground and usually go hopping away when they jump down from their perches.

Boongarries have been seen to jump from branches 60 feet above the ground. They normally prefer easier jumps, however, and frequently after feeding in the tree-top descend to fairly low boughs before take-off.

NATURALISTS consider that the hind-feet of the tree-roos are well-adapted for the arboreal life. The foot besides being shorter and broader than on the ground kangaroo roo has a roughened cushion-sole, while some of the paws are markedly curved. The tree-roo's fore-paws are extra-large and provided with strong, grasping claws.

The Boongarry's very long slender, brush-tipped tail hangs down when its owner is perched aloft and serves as a "gravitational balancer."

The tail is also a prop-aid in climbing. Some observers believe the tail acts as a rudder during the tree-roo's long leaps.

TREE-ROOS CLIMB, not only to feed in the tree-tops on the succulent young foliage, but also to seek refuge from their enemies—the wild dogs of the aborigines.

The flesh of the Boongarry had been highly prized as a food by the natives long before the colonial days.

The dusky tree-kangaroos soon become tame and feed upon bread and various vegetables, fruits and gum leaves. The young are believed to leave the pouch in August.

Animal lovers, now fighting to preserve Australia's dwindling fauna, are alarmed at the thought that the loveable tree-roo might disappear from the national scene. Though protected by rigid conservation laws, wild life will not survive if its habitat is destroyed.

4-H TEACHES CITIZENSHIP

This is what one young 4-H'er wrote on
'What Citizenship Means to Me.'

I'm learning the meaning of citizenship, by adventure . . . an adventure with a Holstein calf, which my father gave me for a 4-H project. I'm trying to do a good job of raising her, so I can make money without being a nuisance in my home or neighborhood.

I have been told how important it is to keep her from getting loose on the neighbor's fields or the public road. My parents call that "civic responsibility."

I try to learn new ways of tying her for grazing. This is "initiative." Giving her plenty feed, bedding, and exercise develops "industry and dependability." Caring for my sister's calves is "cooperation" or "helpfulness."

Grooming my calf regularly and training her to pose for Show Day is what my 4-H leader calls "noticing details." And finishing my calf chores in time for school is "promptness."

With the adventure I have caring for my calf, "citizenship" doesn't look like such a forbidding word after all!

High School Basketball Play Tightens Down

District Tournaments Destined To Pare Remaining Teams

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's high school basketball race, roaring into district tournament play this week, is beginning to tighten up.

As of today only 60 of the 328 class A teams are still in the running, along with 66 of the 724 class B squads. That means 926 of the 1052 teams have been eliminated.

By week's end, only 16 will be left in each class, so the toll will be terrific the next few days among the better-record squads.

Of teams selected by the state's sports editors in the final Associated Press poll, nine of the top 10 in each division have survived.

Only Canton Timken, rated seventh in class A, is missing from that list—Timken being knocked out Saturday night by Canton McKinley's fourth-ranked Bulldogs, 63-55.

Ninth-ranked Rossford was the only class B casualty, losing 87-77 to third-ranked Troy-Luckey.

Thus in the lose-and-out competition, only higher ranked teams have been able to subside the sports editors' choices.

Many of the top-ranked squads are certain to run into each other in this week's district play, and something must give. Five of the highly-rated class B teams—Willshire, Sulphur Springs, Troy-Luckey, Sycamore and Ottawa Hills—are in the northwest sector. Only four of the five could possibly reach the regionals, and only one the state meet.

Three class A powerhouses from the top 10—Akron South, Canton South, both unbeaten, and Canton McKinley—are in the Kent class A district event. Newark and Columbus East are in the Columbus district event, but are in different brackets so both could win regional berths—Newark going to Berea and Columbus East to Toledo if they survive.

The luck of the draw in the Toledo class A district assured one powerhouse being eliminated, although three of the six teams there will go on to the regionals. The big one sends Shelby (19-1) against St. Mary's Memorial (19-0) Saturday night.

District meets this week, with the number of teams in each, are scheduled as follows:

Class A
Columbus & Martins Ferry 6, Cleveland 9, Kent 8, Toledo 6, Athens 9, Cincinnati 6, Troy 4 and Dayton 4.

Class B
Columbus 4, Westerville 4, Brilliant 4, Zanesville 4, Kent 12, Lima 4, Defiance 4, Mansfield 4, Tiffin 4, Athens 4, Portsmouth 4, Xenia 4, Cincinnati 6, Springfield 4.

Unbeaten Middletown, the No. 1 choice to take the class A title for the sixth time, hopes to make it 20 straight victories Wednesday as the Middies tangle with Dayton Chamblaine (15-4) at Dayton. Other survivors at Dayton, in the race for a regional berth, are Dayton Roosevelt (13-5) and Dayton Fairmont (7-10).

Willshire, with 23 in a row and favored by the pollsters in class B after finishing second to Lockland Wayne last year, moves into the Lima district play against Lafayette, Miller City and Marion Twp.

Here's the way the fields shape up for this week's play as survivors moved from sectional qualifiers to nine class A and 14 class B district tournaments:

Class A
At Columbus: Mt. Vernon (17-3), Columbus St. Charles (16-4), Columbus South (13-7), Newark (19-1), Columbus East (18-2), Worthington (17-3), Columbus North (15-5), Columbus Central (11-7).

Big Ten Champs Retain Titles

CHICAGO (AP)—Champions in Big Ten winter sports repeated with monotonous regularity over the weekend with Michigan's Wolverines winning the coveted track title by beating out Iowa.

Michigan also repeated as the wrestling champion; Ohio State won its eighth straight swimming title, and Illinois made it seven straight in gymnastics.

The only switch saw Illinois regain the fencing title by dethroning Wisconsin. It was Illinois' sixth fencing crown in seven years.

Cubs To Play Tourney Game

With basketball fever cooled down to room temperature as basketball play in Fayette County nears an end, there is at least one more red-hot game coming up.

The Lion Cubs of Washington C. H. High School, the only team in the county still playing basketball, move into their third tournament game Monday night when they meet Circleville on the Chilli-cothe court. The game starts 8:30 P. M.

The Cubs took their second tournament game Friday night in a rousing romp over Twin School at Bourneville, 55 to 22.

In their first tournament game the Cubs chopped down Oak Hill. Season record for the Cubs now is 14 wins, three losses.

Ohio College Court Season Nearing End

COLUMBUS (AP)—The curtain is about to fall on Ohio's 1955-56 college basketball campaign—a season featured by Buckeye domination of out-of-state foes, and the "home floor advantage."

Ohio State invades Minnesota tonight, and Defiance entertains Tri-State of Indiana tomorrow to end the regular schedule. Then Dayton and Xavier go into the NIT at Madison Square Garden, and Central State represents Ohio in the NAIA at Kansas City.

Xavier tuned up for its NIT chores yesterday by nipping Steubenville's Barons 85-67, knocking the easterners from the top of the Ohio best-record list where they had rested with a 24-3 mark.

Ohio State can assure a third-place finish in the Big Ten, far better than pre-season expectations with a win over Minnesota. Robin Freeman, the Bucks' ace point guard, scored 43 in Saturday's 96-84 win over Michigan State to boost his average to 32.8 with a 690 total for 21 contests.

The Buckeye squads lost six of 10 interstate games last week, but wound up with 158 victories against 119 losses against the outside teams and massed 22,196 points in such play to 20,746 for the "foreigners."

Of last week's 31 games, the hosts won 20 to continue the trend which has been noted all season. For the year the hosts have triumphed 369 times and the visitors 167, a huge 202-game edge in favor of the home floors.

Wisconsin Girl Leading Tourney

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Joyce Ziske, seeking her first tournament victory, held a three-stroke lead today going into the final round of the $3,000 Jacksonville Women's open golf tournament.

The young pro from Waterford, Wis., yesterday shot a 71, so far the only subpar round of the tourney, for a 54-hole total of 218.

Long hitting Mickey Wright of San Diego, the leader for the first two days, slid to second place with a 76 and 221. Playing immediately behind Miss Ziske, Mickey had three bogeys on the front and two on the back nine.

DeMarco Favored Over Bud Smith

BOSTON (AP)—Lightweight champion Wallace (Bud) Smith and welterweight contender Tony DeMarco will be fighting a "war for vindication" tonight in a non-title scrap not expected to last the scheduled 10 rounds.

The Boston Garden bout between the 135-pound ruler from Cincinnati and the hard-punching DeMarco from Boston's north end will not be televised or broadcast.

Santee Track Case Labeled Strangest In U. S. History

NEW YORK (AP)—You can't tell the players without a program, so here's a rundown on the principals in the strangest track and field case in American history:

Wes Santee—America's No. 1 miler. Suspended for life by the Amateur Athletic Union for accepting excessive expenses after being cleared by his own district association on the same charges.

Charles P. Grimes—Santee's attorney, and off the results thus far, a mighty successful one. He obtained the injunction, then fought off an AAU appeal.

Pinky Sober—Chief of the AAU's track and field committee, who wrote the report that convicted Santee. He acts as announcer at Madison Square Garden meets and only he knows how he felt when he was forced to announce Santee as an entry in the mile.

Dan Ferris—The big man in the AAU, who usually says nothing that might get him in trouble on any side. This time he thought he was on safe ground, though, and warned meet promoters that they'd be thrown out of the AAU if they had any truck with Santee. The courts decided otherwise and he had to back down.

Avery Brundage—Here's the key man. All-powerful in Olympic circles, athletes, coaches and governments fear him. To put it mildly, he is no admirer of Santee.

Santee's temporary injunction runs out Friday and a hearing will be held in New York State Supreme Court to determine if it should be made permanent. If it is made permanent, then the miler is an amateur in good standing no matter what the AAU says and he'll go in the Milwaukee Journal Games Saturday.

DeMarco is looking beyond the fight to a third shot at the welter crown he held for 70 days a year ago. He wants the winner of the March 14 Carmen Basilio-Johnny Saxton title match.

Only three players on the Cincinnati Redlegs make their home in Cincinnati. They are Ted Kluszewski, Gus Bell and Charley Harmon.

In winning the 1955 American League pennant, the Yankees shut-out their foes 19 times while being blanked themselves only five.

Only 4 Berths Still Empty In 1956 NCAA Cage Tourney

(By The Associated Press)
Only four berths remained empty today in the sprawling, 25-team NCAA championship basketball tournament, and two of the vacancies may be filled by tonight.

All four spots are reserved for conference champions—the South-eastern, Big Ten, Big Seven and Ohio Valley.

The SEC is putting its entry to a vote. Alabama, already in possession of its first title since 1934, ordinarily would get the berth. But because the Tide's five regulars are four-year men and ineligible under NCAA rules, the SEC members must decide whether to send "Bama's" second team or Kentucky, which wound up second in the conference.

Iowa can collar the Big Ten title and tourney berth by getting past Indiana tonight at Iowa City.

The Big Seven could be decided tomorrow night with a Kansas State victory over Kansas.

Western Kentucky and Tennessee Tech meet in the first phase of a three-way playoff for the Ohio Valley title Wednesday. The winner then meets Morehead Ky. Thursday for the crown.

Five teams gained berths by winning conference crowns over the weekend:

N.C. State swept through the Atlantic Coast Conference tourney as Vic Molodet set a three-game playoff record by scoring 79 points clipping Wake Forest 76-64 in the final.

West Virginia repeated in the Southern, defeating Richmond 38-36 in its tourney finale on Hot

Mayfield Collects Baton Rouge Purse

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Shelley Mayfield, a three-stroke winner in the $12,500 Baton Rouge Open, today headed for his Los Angeles home and his new daughter.

Mayfield dropped a 22-foot putt for a birdie on the par-four 17th hole yesterday, then sank a six-footer for another birdie on the last hole to pull away from Jimmy Demaret after the two were even for 16 holes.

The blond, sun-tanned Californian, chalking up his first victory on the winter tour, finished with a 3-under-par 69 over the 6,450 yard Baton Rouge Country Club course. He had a 277 total and won $2,200.

High School Basketball Play Tightens Down

District Tournaments Destined To Pare Remaining Teams

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's high school basketball race, roaring into district tournament play this week, is beginning to tighten up.

As of today only 60 of the 328 class A teams are still in the running, along with 66 of the 724 class B squads. That means 926 of the 1052 teams have been eliminated.

By week's end, only 16 will be left in each class, so the toll will be terrific the next few days among the better-record squads.

Of teams selected by the state's sports editors in the final Associated Press poll, nine of the top 10 in each division have survived.

Only Canton Timken, rated seventh in class A, is missing from that list—Timken being knocked out Saturday night by Canton McKinley's fourth-ranked Bulldogs, 63-55. Ninth-ranked Rossford was the only class B casualty, losing 87-77 to third-ranked Troy-Luckey.

Thus in the lose-and-out competition, only higher ranked teams have been able to subdue the sports editors' choices.

Many of the top-ranked squads are certain to run into each other in this week's district play, and something must give. Five of the highly-rated class B teams—Willshire, Sulphur Springs, Troy-Luckey, Sycamore and Ottawa Hills—are in the northwest sector. Only four of the five could possibly reach the regionals, and only one the state meet.

Three class A powerhouses from the top 10—Akron South, Canton South, both unbeaten, and Canton McKinley—are in the Kent class A district event. Newark and Columbus East are in the Columbus district event, but are in different brackets so both could win regional berths—Newark going to Berea and Columbus East to Toledo if they survive.

The luck of the draw in the Toledo class A district assured one powerhouse being eliminated, although three of the six teams there will go on to the regionals. The big one sends Shelby (19-1) against St. Marys Memorial (19-0) Saturday night.

District meets this week, with the number of teams in each, are scheduled at:

Class A
Columbus 8, Martins Ferry 6, Cleveland 9, Kent 8, Toledo 6, Athens 9, Cincinnati 6, Troy 4 and Dayton 4.

Class B
Columbus 4, Westerville 4, Brilliant 4, Zanesville 4, Kent 12, Lima 4, Defiance 4, Mansfield 4, Tiffin 4, Athens 4, Portsmouth 4, Xenia 4, Cincinnati 6, Springfield 4.

Unbeaten Middletown, the No. 1 choice to take the class A title for the sixth time, hopes to make it 20 straight victories Wednesday as the Middies tangle with Dayton Chaminade (15-4) at Dayton. Other survivors at Dayton, in the race for a regional berth, are Dayton Roosevelt (13-5) and Dayton Fairmont (7-10).

Willshire, with 23 in a row and favored by the pollsters in class B after finishing second to Lockland Wayne last year, moves into the Lima district play against Lafayette, Miller City and Marion Twp.

Here's the way the fields shape up for this week's play as survivors moved from sectional qualifiers to nine class A and 14 class B district tournaments:

Class A
At Columbus: Mt. Vernon (17-3), Columbus St. Charles (16-4), Columbus South (13-7), Newark (19-1), Columbus East (18-2), Worthington (17-3), Columbus North (15-5), Columbus Central (11-7).

At Kent: Akron Garfield (16-1), Akron South (18-0), Newton Falls (12-8), Struthers (14-7), Canton South (19-0), Canton McKinley (17-3), Alliance, Sandy Valley.

At Dayton: Middletown (19-0), Dayton Chaminade (15-4), Roosevelt (13-5), and Fairmont (7-10).

At Cleveland: (Thursday night semifinals) Cleveland East Tech (19-0) vs. Cleveland John Marshall (11-8); Cleveland South (14-5) vs. Cleveland Cathedral Latin (17-3), and Lorain (17-2) vs. Cleveland Benedictine (11-8); (Saturday night finals) Cleveland West Tech (8-11) vs. Lorain-Benedictine winner, Cleveland St. Ignatius (12-6) vs. East Tech-Marshall winner, and Ashtabula (19-2) vs. South-Cathedral Latin winner.

At Martins Ferry: The defending class A state basketball champ, Zanesville (9-11) meets East Liverpool (16-4); Bellaire (16-2) plays Steubenville (17-3) Tuesday. Martins Ferry (16-4) plays the East Liverpool-Zanesville winner on Wednesday. Coshooton (10-9) takes on the Bellaire-Zanesville winner the next night. The championship game will be Saturday.

At Toledo: (Friday night) Toledo Macomber (19-2) vs. Whitehouse Anthony Wayne (14-3); (Saturday night) Shelby (19-1) vs. St. Marys Memorial (19-0); Tiffin Columbian (15-4) vs. Toledo Clay (17-4).

Class B
At Columbus: Johnstown (20-1), Plain City (23-1), Lancaster St. Mary (20-4), Columbus St. Mary (19-1).

Iowa can collar the Big Ten title and tourney berth by getting past Indiana tonight at Iowa City.

The Big Seven could be decided tomorrow night with a Kansas State victory over Kansas.

Western Kentucky and Tennessee Tech meet in the first phase of a three-way playoff for the Ohio Valley title Wednesday. The winner then meets Morehead Ky. Thursday for the crown.

Five teams gained berths by winning conference crowns over the weekend:

N.C. State swept through the Atlantic Coast Conference tourney as Vic Molodet set a three-game playoff record by scoring 79 points clipping Wake, Forest 76-64 in the final.

West Virginia repeated in the Southern, defeating Richmond 58-56 in its tourney finale on Hot

Larry Doby Sees Good Year Ahead

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Larry Doby, Chicago White Sox outfielder acquired from Cleveland, is in fine physical condition this year and believes if he has a good season the Sox will win the American League pennant.

"I think I can help this club," says Doby, "and if I have a good season we can win the pennant. This is a good live club."

Doby batted .291 for Cleveland last year and drove in 75 runs. He also clouted 26 homers.

Mayfield Collects Baton Rouge Purse

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Shelley Mayfield, a three-stroke winner in the $12,500 Baton Rouge Open, today headed for his Los Angeles home and his new daughter.

Mayfield dropped a 22-foot putt for a birdie on the par-four 17th hole yesterday, then sank a six-footer for another birdie on the last hole to pull away from Jimmy Demaret after the two were even for 16 holes.

The blond, sun-tanned Californian, chalking up his first victory on the winter tour, finished with a 3-under-par 69 over the 6,450 yard Baton Rouge Country Club course. He had a 277 total and won $2,200.

Houston, though idle, won its first Missouri Valley title as Oklahoma A&M eliminated St. Louis 52-49.

UCLA clinched the Pacific Coast title by sweeping California in a pair 85-80 and 84-62.

Tur, Fin and Campfire

By JACK SORDS

- MAKING FILLETS -
CUT SKIN FROM THE TOP, JUST BEHIND THE HEAD, TO A POINT ABOUT MIDWAY DOWN. USE ONLY ENOUGH PRESSURE TO CUT THROUGH SKIN.

HERE PUSH KNIFE FLAT UNDER SKIN AND CONTINUE THE CUT TO FRONT OF ANAL FIN AND BACK TO TAIL.

FROM THE POINT OF FIRST CUT, CONTINUE ALONG BACK BONE TO END OF TAIL.

BEGINNING AT TOP CORNER, PULL UP UNTIL YOU CAN GET A FIRM GRIP, THEN RIP SKIN ALL THE WAY BACK.

ALONG THE FIRST SKIN CUT, SLICE DEEP UNTIL KNIFE HITS BONY STRUCTURE AND CONTINUE ALONG PATH OF DOTTED LINE.

THE FILLET IS NOW READY TO BE SHAVED OFF. START IT FROM THE FRONT AND WORK BACK. TURN FISH OVER AND REPEAT PROCESS.

Railroads Given Permission To Boost Rates By 6 Pct.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's railroads had permission today to boost by 6 per cent the rates they charge for most freight they haul across state lines.

In the fastest general rate increase action on record, the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday authorized the increase to become effective Wednesday.

On many farm commodities and some minerals, the ICC ordered the rate increase held under 6 per cent.

The same increases were authorized also for domestic water carriers.

The railroads had sought a flat 7 per cent rate rise, citing increased labor and materials costs. Seeking quick action, they had offered to refund the increased charges if the ICC found later that they were not justified.

BUT THE ICC closed the case late yesterday with a finding that a general 6 per cent rate advance was warranted by operating expense increases amounting to more than 500 million dollars annually. "The new rates thus are not subject to refunding."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it: A X Y D B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Mrs. Avann Dies At Home Here

Many Years Abroad
In Mission Service

Mrs. Orpha Cheney Avann, 87, died at 8:25 A. M. Sunday at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. George Cheney, 703 Washington Avenue. She had been in failing health for some time, but her condition had been considered serious only for the last two weeks.

She was the widow of Dr. Joseph M. Avann, a Methodist minister and missionary, who died in 1917.

She was a native of Ohio, the daughter of an itinerant Methodist minister, and was a teacher before her marriage. After her marriage to Dr. Avann, she lived in Lima, Ohio, and Terre Haute, Valparaiso and Gary, Ind.

Entering the religious education field in her own right, she occupied the chair of missions in the Chicago Training School in 1917 when her husband died and remained in that position until the school was merged with the Garrett Biblical School in 1934.

For 22 years, she was one of the corresponding secretaries of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society. In 1933 she was sent to China as an official visitor of the society. She spent about a year in the Orient at that time, visiting every mission station in China and many others in Korea and Japan.

SHE WAS ONE of five commissioners sent by the Methodist Church to Korea in 1930 to aid in uniting the Methodist Episcopal and Methodist Episcopal South churches to form the Korean Methodist Church.

She spent the summer of 1936 in Mexico visiting Methodist missions there and the following year she was sent to the British Isles, Holland, Germany, Switzerland and France on a similar assignment by the church.

A few hours after her death, cremation was held in Columbus in accordance with her request.

Memorial services are to be held at 3:30 P. M. Wednesday in Grace Methodist Church in charge of Dr. Edwin H. Dickey, superintendent of the Wilmington District of the Methodist Church. Dr. Dickey is to be assisted by Rev. D. B. Nelson of Washington C. H., retired Methodist minister.

Immediately following the memorial service at the church a committal service is to be held on the family lot in the Washington C. H. Cemetery.

Gerstner Funeral Home has been in charge of all the arrangements.

Farrell Briggs Dies Unexpectedly

Funeral services for Farrell Briggs, 60, who had many friends and relatives in Washington C. H. and Fayette County, are to be held in the Methodist Church at Frankfort at 2 P. M. Tuesday.

He died suddenly of a heart attack while washing his car at his home in Frankfort Saturday afternoon.

He was a native of Austin, but had spent most of his life in Frankfort. He was in the bank there for a time, but on recommendation of his physician, he resigned that indoor position to become a rural mail carrier.

He is survived by his widow, two sons and a daughter, Mrs. Henry Otten, a missionary now in Wandoor, Malabar, India, in addition to an unusually large family connection.

Syngman Rhee Coy About Reelection

SEOUL, Korea — President Syngman Rhee's Liberal party re-nominated him for a third term today. The 80-year-old President replied that he did not want to run, but political observers took it as a political gesture rather than an outright refusal.

South Korea's dominant figure hedged still further in a later statement, telling a delegation from his Liberal party, "I don't like to do anything against the will of the public." He repeated, though, that he hoped "an able man will come out as I would like to sit back."

County Relief Funds Arrive

$41,372.75 Welfare
Check Sent By State

Relief funds totaling $41,372.75 have arrived at the Fayette County Welfare Office, Mrs. Beryl Cockerill, welfare officer for the county, said Monday.

The money, forwarded from the office of state Auditor James A. Rhodes, is the county's share of utility taxes collected by the state.

Income from state taxes on utilities is divided about evenly between the state and the county relief programs. Of the $30,396,309.65 collected from utility companies in the state, $15,891,641.25 was divided among the counties.

The amount paid to each county is determined by a formula based on the county's population and the amount of relief funds used last year.

Fayette County's 1955 relief funds totaled $39,558.12, Mrs. Cockerill said. This year's allotment is up 4 1/2 percent over the amount for last year.

Statewide, the 1956 allotments are up 6 percent over last year's.

THE ALLOTMENT, though earmarked for the 1956 calendar year, will have to last into 1957, Mrs. Cockerill said.

Since the allotments are paid in February or early March each year, the previous year's allotment is used to cover expenses of the first months of the following year. The 1955 funds were used in the first two months of this year, she said.

This county's $41,372.75 check from the state fell far short of the top payment of $3,427,352.47, drawn by Cuyahoga County. Vinton County's $15,482.06 was the smallest payment.

The six counties surrounding Fayette drew the following amounts: Clinton, $46,590.68; Greene, $81,576.67; Highland, $41,147.14; Madison, $35,541.10; Pickaway, $52,917.98 and Ross, $88,600.53.

Final Tribute Paid To Miss Passmore

Final tributes were paid to Miss Anna Passmore at funeral services held at 2 P. M. Saturday at the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home here.

Date For Kennell Ditch Hearing Set

Following the first hearing on Feb. 27, the Fayette County Board of Commissioners at Monday's regular meeting in the offices at the Court House, officially approved their minutes, which gave preliminary approval to the Jacob Kennell Ditch improvement in Marion Township.

The commissioners have authorized County Engineer Charles Wagner to proceed with preparing maps, profiles and estimates on the ditch to be ready by March 27. Following that the final hearing on the proposed improvement will be held including action on the schedule of assessments against property owners to be benefited, on April 16 at 1 P. M., at the Court House.

Aside from routine business and approvals of bills, some minor drainage problems in Union Township and a few other small proposals of a general nature, were discussed without any action being taken at this time.

The amount paid to each county is determined by a formula based on the county's population and the amount of relief funds used last year.

Fayette County's 1955 relief funds totaled $39,558.12, Mrs. Cockerill said. This year's allotment is up 4 1/2 percent over the amount for last year.

Statewide, the 1956 allotments are up 6 percent over last year's.

THE ALLOTMENT, though earmarked for the 1956 calendar year, will have to last into 1957, Mrs. Cockerill said.

Since the allotments are paid in February or early March each year, the previous year's allotment is used to cover expenses of the first months of the following year. The 1955 funds were used in the first two months of this year, she said.

This county's $41,372.75 check from the state fell far short of the top payment of $3,427,352.47, drawn by Cuyahoga County. Vinton County's $15,482.06 was the smallest payment.

AA Meeting Is March 18

Several members of Alcoholics Anonymous here are expected to be among the 86 groups from all over Ohio that have signified their intentions of attending the state Alcoholics Anonymous in the YM-CA auditorium at 2:30 P. M. in Columbus March 18.

A Chicago newspaper editor, who is nationally known as an AA speaker, is to tell how he conquered and overcame alcoholism through the Alcoholics Anonymous program.

The delegate who will represent Ohio at the international AA service conference to be held next month in New York will report on AA activities throughout the world. Members of the clergy and medical profession, law enforcement officials and all others who are interested in the AA program are invited.

How many will go to the meeting from Washington C. H. is still uncertain; who they are, of course, will remain anonymous.
